Dock Strike Hits On Gulf And Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike by longshoremen—the dock workers who load and unload ship cargoes and baggage—has tied up shipping operations all along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

President Kennedy's plea to postpone the walkout for 90 days went unheeded.

Some 81,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), by estimate of the union's president, are involved in the strike, affecting major ports from Searsport, Maine, to Brownsville, Tex.

The walkout began promptly at 5 p.m., Sunday, the very minute an 80-day federal court strike injunction against the ILA expired.

The government, acting on Kennedy's orders, obtained the injunction early last October to give the longshoremen 80 days to cool off under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The enjoinder was issued after the ILA pulled a four-day strike.

Key issue is the ship owners' demand that longshoremen cut their work gangs from 20 to 17 men, saying a larger number is "feather-bedding." The ILA says it will not "negotiate our men out of business."

As soon as the current walkout began, pickets appeared at such ports as New York; Newark, N.J. Houston, Tex., and Lake Charles, La.

No picket lines were planned for some ports, including Mobile, Ala., and Providence, R.I., ILA spokesmen said. One said that Philadelphia, Trenton, N.J., and Wilmington, Del., docks will not be picketed in full force until after Christmas.

Loading and unloading of ships moved at a frenzied pace Sunday in an effort to get the vessels on their way before the strike deadline.

One dockworker remarked that the Hudson River "looked like the Jersey Turnpike" as a stream of ships—the Coast Guard put the number at 55, unusually high for a Sunday—put to sea from New York.

How long will the strike last? "Who knows?" said David Alston, an ILA international vice president and boss of 2,000 longshoremen at Hampton Roads, Va. "We've just now pulled the plug out of the barrel."

Even before the strike deadline, the United States Lines announced cancellation of two sailings this week—a Caribbean cruise of the liner America, scheduled for Wednesday, and the transatlantic crossing of the liner United States, set for Thursday. The vessels will be laid up at Newport News, Va.

Economic effects of the strike go beyond possible price rises on merchandise. In New Orleans,

With Family At Substation

Nigerian Student Has Happy Yule As Guest Of District Residents

By BYRON R. EELLS

The true spirit of "goodwill toward men" prevails at the home of a Substation family which is providing a home away from home for a 20-year-old Nigerian student during the Christmas holidays.

Samuel P. Akinbami is spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Morris and their four children of Lincoln Rd. while vacationing from his civil engineering studies at Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

It is the second visit for Sam to the Morris home and the youngsters especially are thrilled as the holiday nears. Surrounding the West African, who is attired in his native garb, are Terry, 8; Linda, 10; Bruce, 4, and Robbie, 12.

SAM'S FIRST visit was in August, when he arrived to stay with the Morris' to comply with one of the requirements of the African Scholarship Program of American Universities..

Each ASPAU student must spend three to four weeks with an American family to become familiar with American customs and culture.

The Morris' first heard of the ASPAU program through the United Presbyterian Women's Association when it chose the home stay portion of the program as its two-year project for Target—Africa.

The Calcutta United Presbyterian Women's Association became interested when Mrs. Morris' mother, Mrs. D. F. Reynolds, co-chairman of the Steubenville Presbytery committee, introduced the plan to the association.

AND MRS. MORRIS had a natural interest in the program, since her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Reynolds, the former Jane Barbour of Ohio Ave. are medical missionaries in Ethiopia.

Her husband and children shared Mrs. Morris' enthusiasm and the family contacted the Experiment in International Living in Putney, Vt., which administers the homestay project, for additional information and an application blank.

Following are family talks, prayer and careful consideration, the application was filed and the family learned of Sam within a week, Mrs. Morris said.

All Prisoners May Be Back In U.S. Today

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Operation Ransom roared back into action this Christmas Eve, its mission to compete an airlift of 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions in the United States.

Six planes were assigned to a full-speed ahead windup of the job begun Sunday. The first mercy plane lifted from San Antonio de Los Banos military airport at 9:25 a.m., with more than a hundred survivors of the foredoomed Bay of Pigs invasion of April 1961.

Officials hoped the job of shuttling all the rest of the captives would be completed early in the day. The airlift brought 426 men into Homestead Air Force Base in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its humans-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DC6's supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom planeloads of men exchanged by Fidel Castro's regime for $53 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

The first plane landed at 6:06 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their Island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

By 8:55, the fourth planeload had arrived, bringing the total number delivered to 426.

Then the flights seemed to be suspended, although officials in Miami said they could not explain it. Anxious relatives who had waited since early morning until long past midnight slowly began to drift out, in deep disappointment, from the Dinner Key Auditorium reception center. Some simply dropped from exhaustion in their chairs.

Crowds waiting for the prisoners since early Sunday morning had gone through eight hours of tense, fear-laden vigil before a firm announcement was made that the first liberation aircraft had taken off from San Antonio

Hoffa Jury Is Dismissed In Mistrial

U.S. Judge Orders Thorough Probe Of Secret Testimony

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Justice Department has failed again—for the fourth time in five years—to put James R. Hoffa behind bars.

The $1-million conspiracy trial of the Teamsters Union president wound up with a hung jury Sunday. After the judge declared a mistrial, several jurors said the vote was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Hoffa was accused of conspiring with a Michigan car-hauling firm to violate the Taft-Hartley Act's ban against payoffs from employers to union officials. The complex trial began Oct. 22.

As he released the jurors, U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller ordered a thorough investigation into heretofore secret FBI testimony that two Hoffa associates tampered with or tried to influence two members of the jury. The two jurors were replaced by alternates earlier this month.

The jury received the case Friday and deliberated 17 hours, including three hours Sunday. Upon receiving the jury's fourth report that it was hopelessly deadlocked, the judge dismissed the panel.

"I dislike very much the idea of not having the case resolved one way or the other after all of this labor and effort. However, there comes a time when, if the members of the jury cannot agree, they cannot agree, and that is it," Judge Miller said.

Hoffa said he was disappointed

The nation's traffic death toll passed the 300 mark in the first 2½ days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below pre-holiday estimates by safety experts.

"If the present trend continues, this will be the safest Christmas holiday on record," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Safety Council.

The council, based on previous holidays and the record traffic toll for the past year, had estimated 650 to 750 deaths on the highways during the long holiday period.

"If the trend holds," Pyle said, "the final toll could be as low as 550."

The count, which started at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Christmas, showed 304 traffic deaths throughout the nation. Fires had killed 44 persons and 37 others had lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an over-all total of 385.

Pyle said that the traffic toll was 100 lower than for the corresponding period for the Christ-

Farmer, 9 Children Perish In Home Fire

BROUGHTON, Nova Scotia (AP)—A farmer and nine of his children died today in a fire that destroyed their home.

Volunteer firemen from Birch Grove, the nearest department, found the dwelling leveled when they arrived. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Mrs. Bateman trudged half a mile in below-freezing temperatures and more than 20 inches of snow to tell her nearest neighbors of the fire. She was taken to hospital at nearby Glace Bay. She suffered shock.

Warm Yuletide Greetings Pour Into White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A deluge of Christmas cards with greetings from the warm hearts of Americans—and even from people in other lands—has been pouring into the White House at a rate of 1,500 a day.

They offer President Kennedy words of prayer, confidence and encouragement. They give him thanks and praise.

Those from important people—and there are many—and a sampling of those from ordinary people have been forwarded direct to the chief executive at his holiday hideaway in Palm Beach, Fla. He doesn't have the time to see them all. Yet every one is counted and catalogued at the White House.

They come from as far away as Hawaii and Tokyo. A 15-year-old Japanese girl sends a lovely cards on rice paper and a bit of poetry to "Dear President Kennedy."

"A merry Christmas,
A joyous day,
Then a year that's happy
In every way."

In words which a number of adults echoed, a 14-year-old boy in Victoria, British Columbia, penned on his card "best wishes for a peaceful new year."

About one out of every three cards was from a child or teenager.

From youngsters and adults there were expressions of approval of the President's handling of the Cuban crisis written beneath or opposite the formal greetings.

One card posted on the USS Forrestal, an aircraft carrier, pictured four jets hauling Santa's sleigh. On it a member of Fighter Squadron 103 told his commander in chief: "Thanks for your stand in the Cuban crisis. It makes me proud to be an American."

In a beautiful, clear hand a San Diego, Calif., girl who said she was a fourth grader wished the President a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year and then assured him: "I liked the way you managed during the Cuban crisis."

Some of the cards are completely impersonal. Others are signed as if the President were a member of the family. A sailor on a destroyer escort mailed a card signed simply "Jim and Betty."

There is a generous sprinkling of "spiritual bouquets" and cards from religious groups. A Camden, N.J., woman promised the President, "You will be remembered in 5,000 holy Masses, 12,-

Flurries Due, Assuring City Of White Yule

When Irving Berlin wrote "White Christmas," he forgot to say how doggoned cold it can get on Dec. 25 in the Ohio Valley!

The Ohio weatherman came up with some new lyrics today that spell out a white Christmas, along with bone-chilling temperatures.

But he promised there will be new snow flurries today and tomorrow. With the cold weather that moved in over the weekend, the district is certain of a white Christmas. Cold, but white!

The mercury will range up to a high of 15-21 today after some snow flurries, the weatherman said. The low tonight will range from 1 to 8 degrees.

There will be increasing cloudiness tomorrow, but it will not be quite as cold, the weatherman said. He said there is a good possibility of a light snow in the afternoon.

Borne by stiff winds, a cold wave moved into the area Sunday. It sent the mercury to a low of 8 in the suburbs early today. The downtown area had an overnight low of 12. Light snow fell several times on the weekend.

The bitter cold assured that an accumulation of snow that built up more than a week ago will be on the ground to make the holiday a white one.

'Chain' Crash Hurts Driver Of Small Auto

Roadster In Middle Of 3-Way Collision On East End Street

A 37-year-old East Liverpool man was injured early Sunday when his small foreign - made roadster literally was caught in the middle in a three - way collision in East End that also involved two conventional autos.

He is Morgan W. Fulmer of Drain St., driver of 1959 model compact that was damaged in a "chain reaction" crash at 12:14 a. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. 80 feet east of Lee St.

Police said the crash also involved a 1962 model car driven by James Robert Parker, 32, of Anderson Blvd. and a 1962 model convertible operated by Donald L. Schussler, 36, of 647 Spring Grove Ave.

Fulmer was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the forehead suffered when his head struck the rear view mirror.

The crash damaged both the front and rear of Fulmer's roadster, as well as the windshield, police said.

All three autos were moving west, police said. Parker, in the lead car, said he stopped because an auto ahead of him halted "for some unknown reason."

Fulmer said he halted behind Parker, but his car was hit from the rear by Schussler's and driven forward into Parker's. Schussler reported he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the roadster, officers said.

A motorist was cited as the aftermath of another three-way collision Sunday at 8:42 p. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Marshall St.

The mishap involved a 1956 auto

Premier's Jovial In Accompaniment Of Prisoner Deal

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro observed what he called a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States today in jovial accompaniment to the prisoners deal.

Relatives of the freed captives blunted an edge of sadness at not being able to see them before their departure by drinking champagne toasts to their health and future in the United States.

As the swap of 1,113 invasion captives for food and medicine began Sunday, Castro drove unannounced to the dock where the freighter African Pilot was unloading the $11-million down payment on the deal.

The bearded Cuban leader showed only casual interest in the food and medicine, but he declared the one-day "state of peace" in good-natured jesting with the skipper of the vessel and personally escorted a group of Americans on a tour of Havana.

But he promised there will be new snow flurries today and tomorrow. With the cold weather that moved in over the weekend, the district is certain of a white Christmas. Cold, but white!

The mercury will range up to a high of 15-21 today after some snow flurries, the weatherman said. The low tonight will range from 1 to 8 degrees.

There will be increasing cloudiness tomorrow, but it will not be quite as cold, the weatherman said. He said there is a good possibility of a light snow in the afternoon.

Borne by stiff winds, a cold wave moved into the area Sunday. It sent the mercury to a low of 8 in the suburbs early today. The downtown area had an overnight low of 12. Light snow fell several times on the weekend.

The bitter cold assured that an accumulation of snow that built up more than a week ago will be on the ground to make the holiday a white one.

'Chain' Crash Hurts Driver Of Small Auto

Roadster In Middle Of 3-Way Collision On East End Street

A 37-year-old East Liverpool man was injured early Sunday when his small foreign - made roadster literally was caught in the middle in a three - way collision in East End that also involved two conventional autos.

He is Morgan W. Fulmer of Drain St., driver of 1959 model compact that was damaged in a "chain reaction" crash at 12:14 a. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. 80 feet east of Lee St.

Police said the crash also involved a 1962 model car driven by James Robert Parker, 32, of Anderson Blvd. and a 1962 model convertible operated by Donald L. Schussler, 36, of 647 Spring Grove Ave.

Fulmer was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the forehead suffered when his head struck the rear view mirror.

The crash damaged both the front and rear of Fulmer's roadster, as well as the windshield, police said.

All three autos were moving west, police said. Parker, in the lead car, said he stopped because an auto ahead of him halted "for some unknown reason."

Fulmer said he halted behind Parker, but his car was hit from the rear by Schussler's and driven forward into Parker's. Schussler reported he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the roadster, officers said.

A motorist was cited as the aftermath of another three-way collision Sunday at 8:42 p. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Marshall St.

Castro Calls Peace Period With America

Premier's Jovial In Accompaniment Of Prisoner Deal

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro observed what he called a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States today in jovial accompaniment to the prisoners deal.

Relatives of the freed captives blunted an edge of sadness at not being able to see them before their departure by drinking champagne toasts to their health and future in the United States.

As the swap of 1,113 invasion captives for food and medicine began Sunday, Castro drove unannounced to the dock where the freighter African Pilot was unloading the $11-million down payment on the deal.

The bearded Cuban leader showed only casual interest in the food and medicine, but he declared the one-day "state of peace" in good-natured jesting with the skipper of the vessel and personally escorted a group of Americans on a tour of Havana.

"And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger." In the hush of a Holy Night, He was born, bringing to earth a joyous promise of Peace and Good Will to all mankind. And now, as the bells ring out the glad tidings, age-old yet ever new, another Christmas dawns. Hope is strengthened, courage fortified, faith renewed. Hearts and spirits are bright with the shining wonder of the Day.

To all our friends, our greetings and good wishes! May you hear the wonder of Christmas in each dearly cherished carol... see its magic in each gaily decked tree... feel its infinite joy deeply in your heart. Hoffa he was not acquitted but gratified he wasn't convicted.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

In the five years since he became president of the 1.5-million member Teamsters Union, Hoffa has spent much of his time in legal scraps with the federal government.

The stocky labor boss was acquitted by a Washington, D.C., jury in 1957 for conspiring to bribe a McClellan committee investigator. Later that year he was indicted in New York on wiretap conspiracy charges. The first trial ended in a hung jury. Hoffa was acquitted on a retrial the next year.

Hoffa charged the Kennedy administration, particularly Atty. Gen. Kennedy, was out to get him.

Before boarding a chartered plane for Detroit, Hoffa fired a parting shot.

"Verdicts by the attorney general must cease," he said. "We have a right to believe that every man should be treated equally."

Neither Hoffa nor Neal would comment on the judge's announcement that he was impaneling a special grand jury to investigate the alleged jury tampering. The judge unsealed the transcripts of two secret court sessions which preceded the dismissals from the jury of Mrs. James Paschal of Woodbury and Gratin Fields of Nashville.

The records told of "a long series of suspicious calls" by Larry Campbell, business agent of the Nashville local with Mrs. Paschal's husband, a state highway patrolman.

Miller said there was no question but that Ewing King, president of Nashville Local 327, "made an improper effort to contaminate" Mrs. Paschal through an offer to her husband. Mrs. Paschal was dismissed Dec. 6.

Fields was replaced just hours before the case went to the jury. The government charged in the transcript he was "improperly influenced through the efforts of Larry Campbell" in a series of telephone calls from Louisville.

The government offered 29 witnesses and 276 exhibits in its efforts to show Hoffa accepted concealed payments from Commercial Carriers, Inc., of Detroit. The government said the payoffs were made through Test Fleet Corp., a truck leasing business it said Commercial Carriers set up and operated for Hoffa's benefit.

Hoffa denied accepting any payoffs from Commercial Carriers and said Test Fleet belonged to his wife, not him.

There Is No Peace On Earth

No one can foretell where violence may erupt next in our disordered world.

There is no peace on earth this Christmas.

There has been no peace on earth any Christmas — not in any literal sense.

At best there has been only a lull in war-making, the kind of a lull that is current this year-end.

There is no suspension of grim watchfulness over nuclear warheads that could destroy millions of lives and make great areas of the earth unsafe for future habitation.

There is no peace this Christmas for crews of missile-firing submarines on endless patrol, for sentries guarding uneasy frontiers, for hundreds of thousands of men of all nationalities who dare not risk relaxation of vigilance lest they be slaughtered.

PEACE ON EARTH, good will toward men, the Christian hope, has not been realized.

Wars and threats of war, hatred and intent to destroy still refute the Christian hope.

But was it a hope that had to be kept by a certain date, after which it would lose validity? Was it a coupon to be redeemed before a deadline?

Who can deny here is more good will toward men today than before, not only in totality but relative to the world's increasing population?

THE GREAT TRUTH of our century is that the masses of mankind are learning to think of one another with tolerance and compassion — that they mingle without rancor and bitterness — that they are pitted against one another not by their nature but by the cruel designs of political leadership.

Wherever this leadership has found it advantageous to look for common grounds of understanding and cooperation, instead, there has been progress. Only in those places where old wounds have been kept open and new hurts inflicted are men bent on mutual destruction.

There is no peace on earth. But there is an expanding peace in the minds of men as they learn to know one another. There is a growing force of good will. There is a spreading impatience with politicians who make careers of pitting people against each other for selfish reasons.

THE PEACE men seek must be found first in their minds. When enough is found, there can be peace on earth.

Was not that the Christian promise?

Is not that the way the promise can be kept — by evolution of an attitude that began nearly 2,000 years ago but is only beginning now to make its impact felt in a world that has known little else but war on earth, bad will toward men?

Every Day Of Every Year

Anywhere you go, wherever you listen, whatever you read, Christmas conveys the same message.

It moves to do something about that side of people's nature which is thoughtful and generous. There is an outpouring of the good side of human nature.

The bad side is on the defensive. Ebenezer Scrooge is a pariah, though in any other setting but Christmas Scrooge was guilty only of being a hard-headed reactionary running his shop on a non-nonsense basis.

But where did the idea come from that the Christmas Spirit is a once-a-year phenomenon like Christmas itself — a thing turned on for a few days each December, then turned off?

THAT ISN'T the way it is with the majority of human beings, and it never should become an excuse for anyone to think of Christmas as some people think of Sunday —a time to be on their best behavior so when it's over they can revert to something less.

Christmas is a propertime to honor all who make each day of the year seem like Christmas. There are myriads of these.

They are overlooked in the hurly-burly of a world in which chaos and violence make news and dignity and compassion for others are as commonplace as dogs biting less.

They cannot compete for attention with the howls and screams of political leaders who first lead us into trouble then rescue us from it, having first exacted a promise of eternal gratitude.

They are no match for the Castros, Krushchevs and homegrown malefactors who leave the impression on thoughtless people that the world must never have been in as bad shape as it is now.

They are kept in the shade by an endless succession of glamor boys and girls who cavort across the scene in displays of bad breeding and shabby morals.

Their generosity and compassion for their fellowmen is overlooked by crowds gaping at the latest in endless eries of malefactors, con artists, betrayers of public trust and corrupters of private virtue.

IF CHRISTMAS Spirit came but once a year, in the sense that Christmas is a once-a-year holiday, nothing we think of as good in the society that has evolved here would have been possible.

For the vast majority, the Christmas Spirit is constant.

It increases in volume for a few days each December. Its quality is constant.

All who know this to be true and especially all who strive to keep it true have special satisfaction at Christmas.

They know what remains to be discovered by all others — that the Christmas Spirit could redeem mankind if it were universally applied to human problems every day of every year.

Who Laughs At The Kennedys?

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis W. Carney, who directs the family life bureau for the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland, has made an observation so packed with consequence one wonders if he thought about them.

He wants the trade to stop promoting that popular record which has been amusing all of us with its takeoff on the voices, inflections and mannerisms of our young President and his Lady.

"The hurtful humor and sometimes ridiculous content of the record are not at all in accord with the respect and reverence that are due the President and his family by Christian standards," Msgr. Carney asserts.

We differ.

We have listened to takeoffs on President Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy. We have heard the takeoffs discussed by others. The humor is not hurtful.

It certainly does not detract from the sense most of us have that the President of the United States and his wife are in that position pro tempore and it is not they but the position that commands respect and reverence

We like to think they have not lost their sense of proportion in the White House; that they laugh at themselves the same as the rest of us laugh at ourselves, thereby hanging on to their sanity when the tempests blow. The President and Mrs. Kennedy, we want to think, have this sense of proportion to an unusual degree.

They know what Msgr. Carney must have missed in his concern about them — that we are not laughing at them but with them when we're amused by the takeoffs.

Confidentially, Msgr. Carney, people who don't like the Kennedys don't listen to the takeoffs. They are not amused.

The Stars Sang

By Truman Twill

Christmas Eve was a wonderful thing in our town.

The stars sang like cathedral organs. It was a waterfall of music, a cascade of sound — and each heard it in his own favorite key and tempo.

Like everything else that happened on the most wonderful night, the star music was subjective. Not everybody could see the Star of the East either, or smell the frankincense.

It was necessary to have been granted certain privileges to know about Christmas Eve.

Chief among these was love. Not kissing, boy-girl love but the kind that turned the cuff of a toil-hardened hand into a caress — the kind that showed itself with extra trips to the bedroom to make sure everything was all right after a child was supposed to be asleep.

Some Christmas Eves were more wonderful than others. But all were alike in one respect: the love underlying the wonder. It never changed.

Sometimes snow fell. Sometimes it was a green Christmas. There were Christmases when everybody piled out early on Christmas morning to go to family reunions, others when everybody came to our house.

As time went on there were no more family reunions; the family had become too unwieldy to be packed into one house.

But no matter what happened on Christmas, Christmas Eve was the same — a time of wonder and of magic that transformed a dingy, drab, tired earth into a dazzling sphere of wonder and glitter.

It was a shock to realize on Christmas morning that nothing had changed. The trees were still in the same place. Everything was the same as it had been before.

If all of us went back to childhood — back to the places where we grew up — back to the family circles where love and security were — the stars would still be pealing out the music of cathedral organs.

The magic would be as it was before.

It's too bad there isn't time to do it. But lacking time, we do the next best thing when our turn comes to pass along what was best from our lives to the next generation.

We teach them how to listen to the stars — how to open their eyes to the magic that makes the world shine on Christmas Eve — how to savor their portion of the imagery that is their heritage.

They must remember that Christmas Eve was a wonderful thing in their town in their time, too, with all the windows lighted, the chimneys waving smoke plumes, the sleigh bells ringing and the few persons not already safe at home scurrying to get there.

What will it matter if the smoke plumes are gone with the sleigh bells and if everybody stays up late on Christmas Eve watching television? The image is in the mind, the same as the music is in the ear.

You can hear it again tonight if you'll listen.

The Light Still Shines

Tax Cuts Aid Austrian Economy

By Victor Riesel

GENEVA

Small wonder they waltz in Vienna. Their country has become one big national "boom town."

Austria has done it with tax cuts — four such slashes in the last eight years.

Victor Riesel

So prosperous now is the little nation, I will not leave Europe without telling its story. Everybody is working who wants to work. There's more than full employment. Many moonlight. But still there are thousands of jobs to be filled.

So Austria, whose leaders boast of its vibrant capitalism, has opened its borders to the unemployed workers of the neighboring socialist state — Yugoslavia. Hundreds have come into Austria from Marshal Tito's land to earn their daily bread. Thousands more have come from Spain and Turkey.

Just how little Austria did it with tax cuts intrigued me.

I talked to the man who should know, Josef Klaus, minister of finance under my friend, Chancellor Alfons Gorbach.

THE MUSIC in Mr. Klaus' voice had little to do with the fact that he is a very successful campaigner and was easily reelected a Salzburg.

Klaus, a "sound-money" man, began by outlining the tax cuts. The first had come in 1954. Although the taxes were cut, the government income rose 12.4 per cent that year, he told me.

That was because the people had more money to spend, the economy was spurred. There was more production to meet more purchasing demand. More people got jobs. More families and more businessmen paid taxes. And even at the new lower tax rate the government took in more money. Only then could it spend more.

The Gross National Product (NP) in the year following the tax cut hiked up 14.7 per cent.

The next tax cut came in '55. Within a year federal revenues went up 8.7 per cent and the GNP jumped 10.1 per cent.

Again in '58, the taxes on personal incomes were decreased. The government's income went up 6.8 per cent. GNP — up 6.2 per cent.

THE MOST RECENT tax cut became effective July 1 of this year. Klaus estimated that his department's income would shoot up by 10.7 per cent while GNP would gain by 6.4 per cent during the ensuing year.

"So you see," Klaus said to me, "Austria has successfully used tax reduction programs as an effective instrument not only for increasing governmental income but actually to put more life into the economic upswing.

"The entire free world can look upon modern Austria as a perfect confirmation that the capitalistic system is the real future."

That, in effect, was the message Klaus carried into the recent campaign which ended on Nov. 18 with a victory of his conservative Peoples' party over the strong Socialist party.

AND OF COURSE over the Communist party, which lost completely, even in the working class districts on which the Soviet's party concentrated.

"I carried the message of the need and the urgency for national financial stability," said Klaus, "from one end of Austria to the other, from one segment of the Austrian public to the other.

"Workers have come into my office and said they want tax cuts, not higher wages. We've done well on a voluntary wage-price freeze. I campaigned on the platform, therefore, that I would be defeated than abandon the principles of financial stability.

"It was obvious that the average Austrian, whether a farmer, worker or businessman, realized that the fundamental need for the modern Austria is the upholding of currency stability through intelligent fiscal and monetary policies."

Klaus told me that his government had reached the point where it could not go in for more spending programs without greater federal income.

When it decided to cut taxes it realized that it would also need greater productivity from its workers and factories — or the government would take in less money, not more. Both labor and management came through.

It happened there. It can happen at home.

Diamonds, for years almost capable of selling themselves, are now finding the going a little harder.

De Beer's central selling organization, which markets 80 per cent of world production, reports that so far its figures are up on 1961, when the total for the year was a record $168 million.

Nevertheless, even at this level, sales failed to keep pace with the rising production, particularly of the smaller gems and diamonds suitable for industrial use. So the producers are intensifying their selling effort.

About one-third of all diamonds, by value, go into industry. They have always been used to cut other diamonds, but they are now wanted for many grinding operations, especially those that call for speed and precision.

Even so, demand has been rising only slowly in the last few years. The high price is one restraining factor. Diamond grit, sorted and graded ready for the toolmakers, comes out at about $2.80 a carat, almost all of which is the cost of getting it out of the ground. In contrast, the mining cost of gem diamonds is usually less than half of the selling price and the cutting, with polishing costs running from 5 to 30 per cent of the price.

The price of gem diamonds is never reduced by an excess supply, for the De Beers central selling organization syphons off a proportion of output if demand becomes weak. At the moment it is holding stocks of both diamond grit and small gems. It does this in order to protect the investment value of the diamond in the interests of the major producers.

Some Thoughts On The Christmas Message

Nearly 2,000 years, the story of the child whose birth we celebrate each Dec. 25 has been a spiritual inspiration.

It is a compelling story that has subordinated evil and accentuated the good. It has kept burning man's faith that some day there would be peace on earth. But this Christmastide, the threat of nuclear destruction of the world is uppermost in our minds.

Though we are not at war, in our so-called peace we are not at peace — either with others or ourselves. Much of our work seems purposeless. In our frenzy of confusion, we wander aimlessly, are assailed by fears.

We seek release from tensions with tranquilizers.

EVERY LEVEL of society is caught in the despair of the age.

"What can religion offer men in times like these?" asks Samuel H. Miller, dean of Harvard's divinity school, in an article in a recent edition of Look magazine.

"We do not want a pat on the back, a shot in the arm, a bit of eyewash to make the world look better. We want no humbug of any kind, much less of a religious sort. Many men, tired of this world, want to catch a glimpse of other ways to live and die than in this 'chrome - plated hell.' "

The noted theologian continued: "Many kinds of religion are available, some are not skin-deep, some mad and insubstantial x x x x. A good bit x x seems hollow; it does not seem to matter except behind glass-stained windows on a Sunday morning.

"It is not dishonest religion as much as restricted religion — a way of thinking for a special time and a special place. It answers a thousand questions we have not asked, and by its sacred garrulousness smothers the questions we must ask or die.

"For the truth is that our world is both hungry for faith and sick of it. To many, faith still smells of superstition, of the Dark Ages, of a surrender not commendable in a mature mind. Multitudes have found it easy to substitute many things for religious faith—all the way from the distractions of TV to the principles of science."

ALTHOUGH Dr. Miller does not include it in his dissertation perhaps part of the confusion and aniety in the world today lies with the theologians themselves.

The controversy in the Middle Ages over the number of angels that could stand on the point of a needle is no sillier than the present-day furor over whether it was an apple or an apricot that Adam and Eve munched in the Garden of Eden. Or that Adam and Eve ever existed.

When spiritual leaders become embroiled in such picayunish disputes, it's small wonder that doubts are raised for the layman.

When spiritual leaders become embroiled and Communists bidding for men's minds make their way of life seem almost reasonable, it is small wonder that laymen are confused.

Dr. Miller's thesis continues: "Now faith is not believing that God is around the corner waiting to give us a special reward. Faith faces everything that makes the world uncomfortable—x x x x. At the very point where atheism seems most reasonable, perhaps inevitable, faith affirms the reality of God."

WERE IT NOT for the faith of the religious leaders who have preserved the Christian traditions down through the years, we would not be celebrating Christmas in 1962.

From the dawn of history there have been wars and rumors of wars. It was so in Christ's time, just as it is today.

Two thousand years ago the world echoed to the sound of marching feet and the rattle of sabers as Caesar's legions ruled the earth.

Still, above the sound of marching feet and their gnawing doubts and anxieties, men of good will continue to hope, to pray and to work for peace on earth.

The Christmas message is for our time, too.

California Jubilation

By Richard Spong

The Golden State, California, is whooping up a four-day holiday for the year's end to celebrate a statistic that's more significant than it may at first appear. The actual legal holiday for California's 100,000 state employes and as many others whose employers go along with the gag is Monday, Dec. 31.

This day was singled out rather arbitrarily by Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as the core of "California First Days," celebrating California's population ascendency over New York State.

Officially, California statisticians put the passing date at Dec. 21; actually, they say, California overtook New York some time in November. New York officials say, "Not so; the Empire State will stay out in front until sometime in August 1963."

CENSUS BUREAU Director Richard M. Scammon loftily avoids the controversy. High above the battle, he sticks with data issued in mid-November that indicate that California will reach a population exceeding New York's total of 17.3 million sometime next spring. Nobody on either side or in the middle denies that the takeover from New York will come sooner or later.

Behind this rather silly controversy are some important facts. New York has 43 U.S. senators and representatives to California's 40, and this ratio will remain unchanged until after the 1970 census. Redistricting on the basis of that enumeration will put California out in front of all the states in political power.

In addition to sending more of its sons to Washington, it will outweigh New York in national political conventions and in electoral votes.

By migration and an excess of births over deaths, California is gaining 1,700 people daily, according to its own experts. They predict a population of 45 million by the year 2,000.

California, according to a recent survey, already leads the nation in retail trade, in home building, in electric - power capacity, in defense and space industries. It receives more than double New York's defense contracts.

Its cash farm income, first among states, is almost four times that of the Empire State.

CALIFORNIA is a state of paradoxes. Its politics, with the habitual disregard of its voters for party loyalty, is the despair of political pros in other parts of the nation. Yet the man who controls the party in power — as Pat Brown clearly does the California Democratic party today — swings a good deal of weight nationally.

California's future is said to depend on water. A good start has been made on a program that will cost billions, much of it coming from the federal government. The people of California see eye to eye on this. They recently voted for sale of $1¾ billions in state bonds to help finance the program.

This is remarkable for a population devoted ardently to the free enterprise system, for that program has been called "by common definition . . . socialistic." But Californians are more pragmatic than ideological. They know that with 77 per cent of the water demand coming from the coastal cities and areas reclaimed from the desert and 70 per cent of the supply in the northern third of the state, growth depends vitally on new dams and reservoirs.

It seems some have made an issue of the cross this year.

I feel we who feel we know the Lord need to speak up for right. Those who live in darkness love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil.

Last year when I first saw the cross I felt it was the loveliest thing East Liverpool ever had and told others and many felt the same. I would have loved to have seen it left up all year and would have been willing to help on the electric for it.

But since the bickering, it seems it grows dimmer and dimmer and loses its beauty and value. But, of course, the real cross and blood of Christ will never lose their power to save people from sin. Nor will they ever lose their value or beauty to the true child of God, but will grow more precious as the days go by.

I have lived in the area for 20 years and have seen nothing more beautiful than the cross. It has been a source of strength and comfort to many I expect when they needed it in depressing moments. Just looking up to the cross relieves moments of depression.

There Is No Peace On Earth

No one can foretell where violence may erupt next in our disordered world.

There is no peace on earth this Christmas.

There has been no peace on earth any Christmas — not in any literal sense.

At best there has been only a lull in war-making, the kind of a lull that is current this year-end.

There is no suspension of grim watchfulness over nuclear warheads that could destroy millions of lives and make great areas of the earth unsafe for future habitation.

There is no peace this Christmas for crews of missile-firing submarines on endless patrol, for sentries guarding uneasy frontiers, for hundreds of thousands of men of all nationalities who dare not risk relaxation of vigilance lest they be slaughtered.

PEACE ON EARTH, good will toward men, the Christian hope, has not been realized.

Wars and threats of war, hatred and intent to destroy still refute the Christian hope.

But was it a hope that had to be kept by a certain date, after which it would lose validity? Was it a coupon to be redeemed before a deadline?

Who can deny here is more good will toward men today than before, not only in totality but relative to the world's increasing population?

THE GREAT TRUTH of our century is that the masses of mankind are learning to think of one another with tolerance and compassion — that they mingle without rancor and bitterness — that they are pitted against one another not by their nature but by the cruel designs of political leadership.

Wherever this leadership has found it advantageous to look for common grounds of understanding and cooperation, instead, there has been progress. Only in those places where old wounds have been kept open and new hurts inflicted are men bent on mutual destruction.

There is no peace on earth. But there is an expanding peace in the minds of men as they learn to know one another. There is a growing force of good will. There is a spreading impatience with politicians who make careers of pitting people against each other for selfish reasons.

THE PEACE men seek must be found first in their minds. When enough is found, there can be peace on earth.

Was not that the Christian promise?

Is not that the way the promise can be kept — by evolution of an attitude that began nearly 2,000 years ago but is only beginning now to make its impact felt in a world that has known little else but war on earth, bad will toward men?

Every Day Of Every Year

Anywhere you go, wherever you listen, whatever you read, Christmas conveys the same message.

It moves to do something about that side of people's nature which is thoughtful and generous. There is an outpouring of the good side of human nature.

The bad side is on the defensive. Ebenezer Scrooge is a pariah, though in any other setting but Christmas Scrooge was guilty only of being a hard-headed reactionary running his shop on a non-nonsense basis.

But where did the idea come from that the Christmas Spirit is a once-a-year phenomenon like Christmas itself — a thing turned on for a few days each December, then turned off?

THAT ISN'T the way it is with the majority of human beings, and it never should become an excuse for anyone to think of Christmas as some people think of Sunday —a time to be on their best behavior so when it's over they can revert to something less.

Christmas is a propertime to honor all who make each day of the year seem like Christmas. There are myriads of these.

They are overlooked in the hurly-burly of a world in which chaos and violence make news and dignity and compassion for others are as commonplace as dogs biting less.

They cannot compete for attention with the howls and screams of political leaders who first lead us into trouble then rescue us from it, having first exacted a promise of eternal gratitude.

They are no match for the Castros, Khrushchevs and homegrown malefactors who leave the impression on thoughtless people that the world must never have been in as bad shape as it is now.

They are kept in the shade by an endless succession of glamor boys and girls who cavort across the scene in displays of bad breeding and shabby morals.

Their generosity and compassion for their fellowmen is overlooked by crowds gaping at the latest in endless eries of malefactors, con artists, betrayers of public trust and corrupters of private virtue.

IF CHRISTMAS Spirit came but once a year, in the sense that Christmas is a once-a-year holiday, nothing we think of as good in the society that has evolved here would have been possible.

For the vast majority, the Christmas Spirit is constant.

It increases in volume for a few days each December. Its quality is constant.

All who know this to be true and especially all who strive to keep it true have special satisfaction at Christmas.

They know what remains to be discovered by all others — that the Christmas Spirit could redeem mankind if it were universally applied to human problems every day of every year.

Who Laughs At The Kennedys?

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis W. Carney, who directs the family life bureau for the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland, has made an observation so packed with consequence one wonders if he thought about them.

He wants the trade to stop promoting that popular record which has been amusing all of us with its takeoff on the voices, inflections and mannerisms of our young President and his Lady.

"The hurtful humor and sometimes ridiculous content of the record are not at all in accord with the respect and reverence that are due the President and his family by Christian standards," Msgr. Carney asserts.

We differ.

We have listened to takeoffs on President Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy. We have heard the takeoffs discussed by others. The humor is not hurtful.

It certainly does not detract from the sense most of us have that the President of the United States and his wife are in that position pro tempore and it is not they but the position that commands respect and reverence

We like to think they have not lost their sense of proportion in the White House; that they laugh at themselves the same as the rest of us laugh at ourselves, thereby hanging on to their sanity when the tempests blow. The President and Mrs. Kennedy, we want to think, have this sense of proportion to an unusual degree.

They know what Msgr. Carney must have missed in his concern about them — that we are not laughing at them but with them when we're amused by the takeoffs.

Confidentially, Msgr. Carney, people who don't like the Kennedys don't listen to the takeoffs. They are not amused.

The Stars Sang

By Truman Twill

Christmas Eve was a wonderful thing in our town.

The stars sang like cathedral organs. It was a waterfall of music, a cascade of sound — and each heard it in his own favorite key and tempo.

Like everything else that happened on the most wonderful night, the star music was subjective. Not everybody could see the Star of the East either, or smell the frankincense.

It was necessary to have been granted certain privileges to know about Christmas Eve.

Chief among these was love. Not kissing, boy-girl love but the kind that turned the cuff of a toil-hardened hand into a caress — the kind that showed itself with extra trips to the bedroom to make sure everything was all right after a child was supposed to be asleep.

Some Christmas Eves were more wonderful than others. But all were alike in one respect: the love underlying the wonder. It never changed.

Sometimes snow fell. Sometimes it was a green Christmas. There were Christmases when everybody piled out early on Christmas morning to go to family reunions, others when everybody came to our house.

As time went on there were no more family reunions; the family had become too unwieldy to be packed into one house.

But no matter what happened on Christmas, Christmas Eve was the same — a time of wonder and of magic that transformed a dingy, drab, tired earth into a dazzling sphere of wonder and glitter.

It was a shock to realize on Christmas morning that nothing had changed. The trees were still in the same place. Everything was the same as it had been before.

If all of us went back to childhood — back to the places where we grew up — back to the family circles where love and security were — the stars would still be pealing out the music of cathedral organs.

The magic would be as it was before.

It's too bad there isn't time to do it. But lacking time, we do the next best thing when our turn comes to pass along what was best from our lives to the next generation.

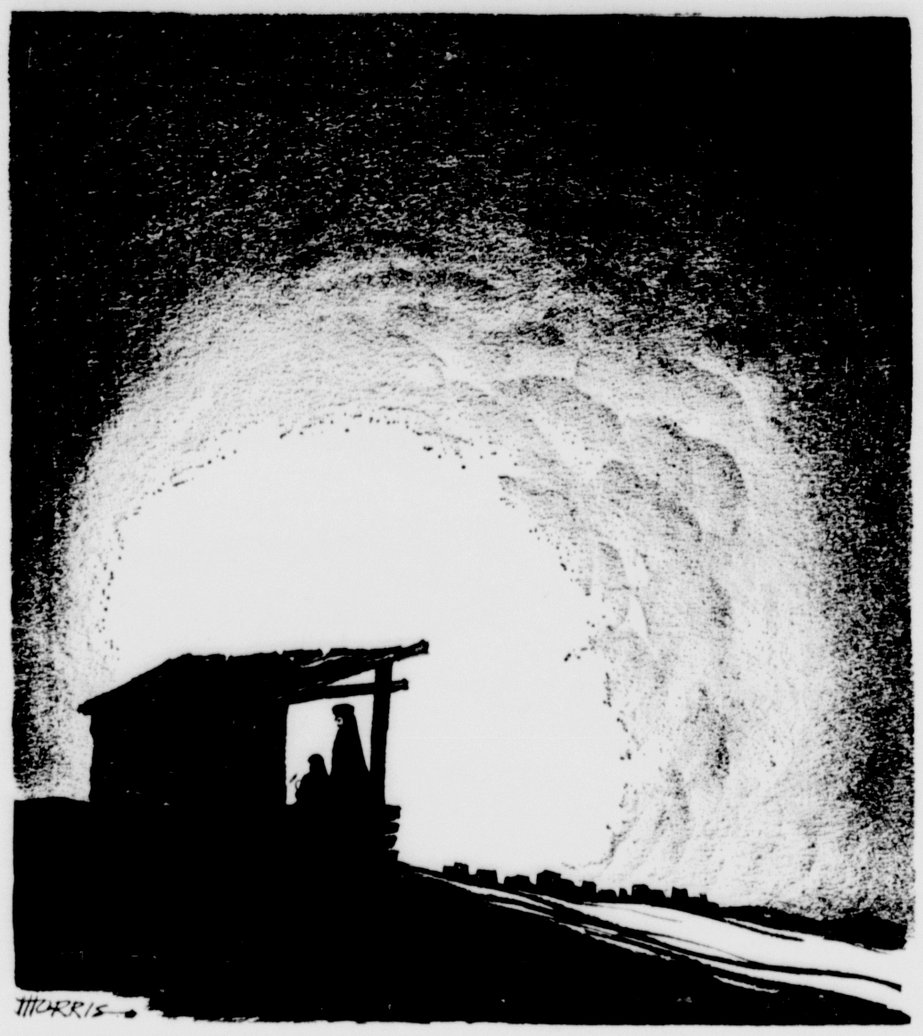
We teach them how to listen to the stars — how to open their eyes to the magic that makes the world shine on Christmas Eve — how to savor their portion of the imagery that is their heritage.

They must remember that Christmas Eve was a wonderful thing in their town in their time, too, with all the windows lighted, the chimneys waving smoke plumes, the sleigh bells ringing and the few persons not already safe at home scurrying to get there.

What will it matter if the smoke plumes are gone with the sleigh bells and if everybody stays up late on Christmas Eve watching television? The image is in the mind, the same as the music is in the ear.

You can hear it again tonight if you'll listen.

The Light Still Shines



Tax Cuts Aid Austrian Economy

By Victor Riesel

GENEVA

Small wonder they waltz in Vienna. Their country has become one big national "boom town."

Austria has done it with tax cuts — four such slashes in the last eight years.

Victor Riesel

So prosperous now is the little nation, I will not leave Europe without telling its story. Everybody is working who wants to work. There's more than full employment. Many moonlight. But still there are thousands of jobs to be filled.

So Austria, whose leaders boast of its vibrant capitalism, has opened its borders to the unemployed workers of the neighboring socialist state — Yugoslavia. Hundreds have come into Austria from Marshal Tito's land to earn their daily bread. Thousands more have come from Spain and Turkey.

Just how little Austria did it with tax cuts intrigued me.

I talked to the man who should know, Josef Klaus, minister of finance under my friend, Chancellor Alfons Gorbach.

THE MUSIC in Mr. Klaus' voice had little to do with the fact that he is a very successful campaigner and was easily reelected a Salzburg.

Klaus, a "sound-money" man, began by outlining the tax cuts. The first had come in 1954. Although the taxes were cut, the government income rose 12.4 per cent that year, he told me.

That was because the people had more money to spend, the economy was spurred. There was more production to meet more purchasing demand. More people got jobs. More families and more businessmen paid taxes. And even at the new lower tax rate the government took in more money. Only then could it spend more.

The Gross National Product (NP) in the year following the tax cut hiked up 14.7 per cent.

The next tax cut came in '55. Within a year federal revenues went up 8.7 per cent and the GNP jumped 10.1 per cent.

Again in '58, the taxes on personal incomes were decreased. The government's income went up 6.8 per cent. GNP — up 6.2 per cent.

THE MOST RECENT tax cut became effective July 1 of this year. Klaus estimated that his department's income would shoot up by 10.7 per cent while GNP would gain by 6.4 per cent during the ensuing year.

"So you see," Klaus said to me, "Austria has successfully used tax reduction programs as an effective instrument not only for increasing governmental income but actually to put more life into the economic upswing.

"The entire free world can look upon modern Austria as a perfect confirmation that the capitalistic system is the real future."

That, in effect, was the message Klaus carried into the recent campaign which ended on Nov. 18 with a victory of his conservative Peoples' party over the strong Socialist party.

AND OF COURSE over the Communist party, which lost completely, even in the working class districts on which the Soviet's party concentrated.

"I carried the message of the need and the urgency for national financial stability," said Klaus, "from one end of Austria to the other, from one segment of the Austrian public to the other.

"Workers have come into my office and said they want tax cuts, not higher wages. We've done well on a voluntary wage-price freeze. I campaigned on the platform, therefore, that I would be defeated than abandon the principles of financial stability.

"It was obvious that the average Austrian, whether a farmer, worker or businessman, realized that the fundamental need for the modern Austria is the upholding of currency stability through intelligent fiscal and monetary policies."

Klaus told me that his government had reached the point where it could not go in for more spending programs without greater federal income.

When it decided to cut taxes it realized that it would also need greater productivity from its workers and factories — or the government would take in less money, not more. Both labor and management came through.

It happened there. It can happen at home.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — The Pennsylvania Department of Health took over the expense of furnishing a half pint of milk twice daily to undernourished children of Midland.

"Share-the-ride" clubs were promoted by decorators in district potteries in an effort to ease the bus problems.

Colin Brown of Pleasant Heights was appointed regular clerk of the East End post office.

TEN YEARS AGO — The Rev. T. Victor Scott of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church was guest speaker at a meeting of the Rotary Club.

Political Present

Kennedy Gets Yule Gift With Prisoners Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — Release of the Cuban invasion prisoners gives President Kennedy a political Christmas present he and his associates have worked hard to attain.

For Kennedy the freeing of the Bay of Pigs captives means the discharge of a moral obligation that has preyed upon him since his administration contributed to the futile attempt in 1961 to overthrow Fidel Castro.

It also helps reduce the sting of criticism Republicans have continued to fling at him for what they contend was his decision against providing adequate air cover that might have made the Cuban refugee invasion successful.

Kennedy himself has said he picked the wrong course in Cuba in 1961. He has indicated he thinks history will charge him with a costly fumble in what was his first major crisis as president.

This feeling obviously has not been obliterated entirely by his October success in forcing Soviet Premier Khrushchev to withdraw offensive missiles and bombers from Cuba.

The freeing of the invasion prisoners, however, may clear his record of one of the worst aspects of the 1961 fiasco—the imprisonment of Cubans under what has been described by their fellow refugees as almost inhuman conditions.

There obviously is going to be discussion in Congress, when it convenes next month, of the role the administration played in arranging for the exchange of medicine and food for the release of the men.

With the full approval of the president, government agencies have been up to the hilt in negotiations carried out by private groups for the exchange.

If the Internal Revenue Service approves tax reductions for the drugs and food donated for Red Cross shipments—the service says they may be listed as charity — there is likely to be opposition in Congress.

Impact On Minuteman Seen In Nuclear Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some key Air Force officers indicated today they are waiting for the other shoe to drop in the Anglo-American agreement to arm Britain with Polaris missile-firing submarines.

They told a reporter they expect that agreement, reached by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, to have some impact on the Air Force's Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile program, possibly in next year's military budget.

The budget now is in close to final shape, but could be changed before it is printed and sent to Congress next month.

There is general agreement that the budget, as it now stands, provides for another wing of the 6,300-mile Minutemen. Informed sources said it may be a 100-missile wing, rather than the 150-missile wing previously reported.

Some officers said there has been discussion of a possible boost to two more wings—as many as 300—of the advanced, quick-firing Minutemen ICBMs in the new budget.

Others, speaking with a pessimism stemming from a series of setbacks to the Air Force, suggested the Kennedy-Macmillan agreement might jeopardize the one added Minuteman wing already ticketed for the new budget.

The Minuteman and Polaris both are included in the military budget's "strategic package" and thus in a sense compete for funds.

Some Air Force officers believe that if the administration moves to earmark some of next year's money for a start on the British Polaris program, at least part of that money might be taken from the Minuteman segment.

More hopeful Air Force authorities reason that money which might have gone to the bomber-launched Skybolt missile might be applied to more Minutemen.

The Air Force's Skybolt is on its way out, despite its first test success Saturday. The British, who were to have mounted the 1,000-mile-range Skybolt on their Vulcan bombers, have agreed to accept Polaris missiles instead and to build subs to launch them. The French have been offered Polarises, too.

The Air Force estimates the Minuteman costs about $4.5 million apiece, counting the expense of building the complex underground launch bases.

Under the current program, the Air Force is building toward a force of 800 Minutemen in widely spaced below-ground launch tubes in Montana, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri and Wyoming.

It declared the first 20 of the solid fuel rockets combat-ready on Dec. 11. Another 130 Minutemen around Malmstrom Air Force base in Montana are due to become operational by summer.

At the outset of the minuteman program several years ago, the Air Force fixed on a target of about 2,000 Minutemen.

We wish a Merry Christmas to all

Katangans Fight U.N. Troops At Elisabethville

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP) — Katanga gendarmes and troops of the U.N. Congo Command battled today on the outskirts of Elisabethville. Each side blamed the other for the Christmas Eve outbreak.

Katangans shot down a U.N. helicopter that flew low over their lines and captured the 11 men aboard it—three Swedes, six Indians and two Irishmen. All were slightly injured. The Katangans said they feared the helicopter was being used to establish a combat position behind them.

They handed it back to the United Nations in midafternoon, however, in response to a call from Brig. Reginald Nornha, commander of U.N. forces in Elisabethville.

With the backing of more than 1,000 fully equipped troops and the guns of 16 U.N. armored cars and heavy troop carriers, Nornha walked within hailing distance of the Katangans and asked for surrender of the helicopter. The Katangans acceded.

East End Man Gets $25 Fine After Mishap

An East End motorist was fined and given a suspended jail term today in Municipal Court after pleading guilty to driving while his operator's license was suspended following a collision early Saturday morning.

A hearing for another city driver, cited on two charges after a crash Friday night, was continued to permit his attorney to appear, while a third motorist involved in a wreck Friday was fined for crashing a traffic light.

Robert E. Adkins, 24, of 525 Palissey St. drew a fine of $25 and costs and was sentenced to 10 days in jail, but Acting Municipal Judge L. W. Smith suspended the jail term.

Adkins was charged after a collision on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." when his car struck an icy spot, hit a guardrail and bounced back into an auto he was passing.

A hearing for Philip W. Sole, 27, of 335 W. 9th St. was continued until 9 a. m. Friday to permit his counsel, Atty. George Aronson, to appear.

Sole told Acting Judge Smith that Aronson was unable to appear this morning and instructed him to enter a not guilty plea.

The W. 9th St. driver was cited for driving without an operator's permit and for leaving the scene of an accident Friday night on St. Clair Ave. in which his auto hit a northbound car and a parked auto.

The northbound motorist, Miss Luanne Miller, 717 Bank St., told investigating officers the other motorist got out of the car and ran down the street.

Sole, taken into custody at City Hospital where he was treated for minor injuries, refused to make a statement, police said.

John J. Pardell, 52, of 408 E. 3rd St., who originally was cited by police for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor following a collision at E. 3rd and Market Sts. involving his auto and a tractor operated by a New Castle trucker, was fined $5 and costs on a lesser charge of crashing a traffic signal.

After investigating the mishap, Patrolman Orin Smith indicated Pardell would be charged with drunk driving.

2 Airmen Reassigned After Texas Training

Two city men have been reassigned to permanent bases for training and duty after completing Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Base in Texas.

Airman John E. Sachs Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Sachs, 1066 St. Clair Ave., will go to Bunker Hill Air Base in Indiana as a fire protection specialist. He is a 1962 graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Airman Leslie M. Straight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Walters, 1617 Smithfield St., will be an air policeman at Paine Field in Washington. He is a 1962 graduate of Wells High School at Newell.

A Jewish family in the Bronx sent in a Hanukkah greeting card with a written prayer: "May the good Lord keep, safeguard and protect you and your loved ones. You are indeed a fearless and dynamic leader—God bless you."

A pretty card from Independence, Ohio, had an additional no to the President to "keep up the good work. Good luck in '64."

Now and then there is a tone of great respect and almost awe in what someone writes the chief executive. A Cleveland man, apparently of foreign extraction, says: "Very respectfully, Mr. President, may God bless you and yours (sic) family at the Christmas times. (sic)."

Suspects Questioned In Assault On Soldier

Hancock County sheriff's deputies quizzed several suspects over the weekend, continuing investigation into an apparent brawl early Saturday morning at a Route 30 tavern in which a 25-year-old Chester GI was beaten severely.

Herman William Koeppen, 244 George St., Chester, is listed in "fair" condition today in City Hospital with injuries received in the fight at one of the taverns east of Chester. He had been in "poor" condition Saturday.

The sheriff's office said a preliminary investigation indicated Koeppen was injured when involved in a fight with perhaps three other men, but deputies were unable to say where the fight occured. Koeppen is an Army specialist stationed in Pittsburgh and was home on leave for the weekend.

Route 7 Mishap Hurts Wellsville Driver, 34

A Wellsville man was injured slightly in a one - car crash on Route 7 a mile and two-tenths north of Steubenville Saturday at 6:45 a.m., according to the Wintersville State Highway Patrol.

Officers said a car driven by Ollie M. Foreman, 34, of 210 Lisbon St., Wellsville, was headed south when his car slid across the highway and struck a guardrail. The car then crossed the road and went over an embankment, officers said.

Foreman, who was cited for driving left of center, was treated at the Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville for a back injury.

Youth's Leg Broken In Sledding Accident

Gary Coleman, 15, son of Wayne Coleman, 734 Oak St., is in "satisfactory" condition today at Osteopathic Hospital with a possible fracture of the right leg. Hurt while riding a sled he was admitted Sunday.

Bonnie Lendon, 17, daughter of William Lendon, 944 Railroad St., was treated Sunday after she slipped and fell, hitting the left side of her forehead.

Castro

paused at a big apartment development so Castro could point out to the visitors a low-rent product of his revolution.

Driving by government buildings, Castro confided: "I don't like bureaucracy." Granting a wish of one of the party, Castro conducted the Americans to the home of the late Ernest Hemingway and through the narrow streets of old Havana.

In the party were E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., a Washington attorney who supervised part of the shipping operation; former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele; the African Pilot's skipper Capt. Alfred Boerum and this correspondent.

Clasping the Americans' shoulders, Castro joshed with them, declaring, "Whatever you want here is yours" and, "Whatever is done for friendship is useful."

The African Pilot steamed into Havana harbor at 2:05 p.m. Sunday after taking on a Cuban pilot and four Cuban Red Cross officials. Not long afterward, the airlift of prisoners to the United States got under way.

"We're up in the clouds," a mother of one of the prisoners told a reporter by telephone. "We are all drinking French champagne."

"My only regret," said another mother, "is that I could not embrace my son before he left." She had not seen him in seven months. A crowd tried to see the captives as they were leaving Principe Prison but officials interfered.

About 25 trucks rolled up to the fortress prison and carried the 900 prisoners held there to the military airport.

Others held on the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast were flown to the airport.

Cuban officials promised to try to unload the African Pilot's 1,400-ton cargo in 24 hours.

"We know you want to go back for Christmas so we'll work as fast as possible," an official said.

mas holiday last year. In last year's three-day Christmas observance, traffic deaths totaled 524.

Stormy and cold weather in sections of the eastern half of the country, the council said, may have resulted in fewer cars on the highways and more careful driving. More snow also was in prospect for the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions today and on Christmas. Driving conditions were hazardous in some areas.

The record traffic toll for any holiday is 706, which was set in the four-day Christmas period of 1956. The lowest for a four-day Christmas holiday since World War II was 535 in 1951.

Route 7 Mishap Hurts Wellsville Driver, 34

A Wellsville man was injured slightly in a one - car crash on Route 7 a mile and two-tenths north of Steubenville Saturday at 6:45 a.m., according to the Wintersville State Highway Patrol.

Officers said a car driven by Ollie M. Foreman, 34, of 210 Lisbon St., Wellsville, was headed south when his car slid across the highway and struck a guardrail. The car then crossed the road and went over an embankment, officers said.

Foreman, who was cited for driving left of center, was treated at the Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville for a back injury.

paused at a big apartment development so Castro could point out to the visitors a low-rent product of his revolution.

Driving by government buildings, Castro confided: "I don't like bureaucracy." Granting a wish of one of the party, Castro conducted the Americans to the home of the late Ernest Hemingway and through the narrow streets of old Havana.

In the party were E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., a Washington attorney who supervised part of the shipping operation; former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele; the African Pilot's skipper Capt. Alfred Boerum and this correspondent.

Clasping the Americans' shoulders, Castro joshed with them, declaring, "Whatever you want here is yours" and, "Whatever is done for friendship is useful."

The African Pilot steamed into Havana harbor at 2:05 p.m. Sunday after taking on a Cuban pilot and four Cuban Red Cross officials. Not long afterward, the airlift of prisoners to the United States got under way.

"We're up in the clouds," a mother of one of the prisoners told a reporter by telephone. "We are all drinking French champagne."

"My only regret," said another mother, "is that I could not embrace my son before he left." She had not seen him in seven months. A crowd tried to see the captives as they were leaving Principe Prison but officials interfered.

About 25 trucks rolled up to the fortress prison and carried the 900 prisoners held there to the military airport.

Others held on the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast were flown to the airport.

Cuban officials promised to try to unload the African Pilot's 1,400-ton cargo in 24 hours.

"We know you want to go back for Christmas so we'll work as fast as possible," an official said.

Traffic

mas holiday last year. In last year's three-day Christmas observance, traffic deaths totaled 524.

Stormy and cold weather in sections of the eastern half of the country, the council said, may have resulted in fewer cars on the highways and more careful driving. More snow also was in prospect for the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions today and on Christmas. Driving conditions were hazardous in some areas.

The record traffic toll for any holiday is 706, which was set in the four-day Christmas period of 1956. The lowest for a four-day Christmas holiday since World War II was 535 in 1951.

Findlay Family Has Surprises

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The Bobby Hackworth family has had several surprises in the past few hours. For instance:

The stork beat the ambulance to their home Sunday night.

The newborn boy was placed in a snug clothes basket for the trip to the hospital, but when the ambulance started out someone checked and found nothing in the basket but clothes. In the excitement, clothes baskets got switched and the baby briefly left behind.

At the hospital, there was one more surprise for everybody. Mrs. Hackworth gave birth to another baby—a girl this time. Because the clock struck midnight while all this was going on, the twins have different birthdays as well as different birthplaces.

Cardinal In Viet Nam For Christmas Tour

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—The battle against communism by the free world is as acute in South Viet Nam as in any part of the world, Francis Cardinal Spellman told military and religious leaders today.

Cardinal Spellman arrived for a four-day Christmas tour of U.S. military installations throughout the war-torn republic. The cardinal is vicar of America's armed forces.

Burns Prove Fatal To Toledo Girl, 9

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Burns received when her clothing caught fire caused the death in St. Vincent's Hospital Sunday of 9-year-old Mary Ann Duvall.

Firemen said the girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duvall, apparently was playing with matches when the accident occurred Saturday in the Duvall home.

Prisoners

de Los Banos military air base, 25 miles southwest of Havana.

The men were processed after landing at Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles from Miami, fed a hearty roast beef dinner and then brought by bus to the auditorium in Miami. For hours there after the building was swept by gales of emotion.

Young fathers showered kisses on infant children whom they had never seen. Gaunt veterans of fighting in the swamps of Cuba wept tears of joy. Wives plunged through the milling crowds to throw themselves into the arms of husbands they had not seen since Brigade 2506 departed for the ill-fated adventure at the Bay of Pigs.

Complete strangers grabbed the liberated invaders and clasped them in "abrazos," the peculiarly Latin back-slapping, bear-hugging embraces.

Ten thousand wives, sweethearts and kinfolk spent most of Sunday night cheering and crying with happiness as buses discharged their young men at the doors of the auditorium.

It had been packed with almost intolerable tension.

Small crowds had gathered early in the morning, since the word was that the first planeload of men to be ransomed would arrive at 9:15 a.m. That hour passed, and another and another. It was nine agonizing hours before the first of the liberated prisoners set foot in the United States.

The reason, apparently, for the delay was that Cubans wanted to inventory the main down payment on the ransom: $11 million worth of foods and drugs taken to Havana by the freighter African Pilot. It arrived in Havana harbor at 2:05 p.m.

The captain of the freighter and Americans aboard her connected with the operation found Prime Minister Fidel Castro on the scene in a merry mood. He told them he had declared a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States for the occasion of the exchange, and he even escorted them on a personal tour of Havana.

In Miami, thousands of Cuban exiles waited in an agony of suspense. Of the 150,000 or so Cuban exiles in the Miami area, about 20,000 are close relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders.

At last, the moment they sometimes scarcely even dared hope for arrived. The first planeload of prisoners touched down at Homestead Air Force Base. In the Miami auditorium Cubans watching the drama on television roared out their cheers.

Darkness had closed in before a second plane touched down an hour later and prisoners stepped out into the glare of television lights and flashlight bulbs.

The men were taken at once to the base's processing center for attention by health and immigration officials before being given dinner in a room gay with Christmas decorations. Then they were taken to Miami and the auditorium, and to scenes of wild joy.

Many of the men seemed scarcely able to believe it was true. The 213 men who had been confined at the Isle of Pines prison camp were told only Saturday midnight that liberation was near, and were flown Sunday morning to the San Antonio base to await their turns in Operation Ransom. The other 900 were removed from Principe Prison in Havana later Sunday.

"Chicos, aqui estoy," (kids, here I am), happily shouted Armando Lastra, a boyish looking, wan young man as he embraced former brigade comrades on the airfield.

A handful of the men arrived on stretchers. Most seemed healthy but they were thin. The food which had been given them apparently had been uninterruptedly bad. One man said it was mostly bad rice with some spaghetti at irregular hours.

The Communists did not physically mistreat them, prisoners said but did so mentally, trying to break their spirits by saying they would do one thing and then doing the opposite.

Most of the prisoners seemed too quiet for men so young. All seemed pale from the long months of confinement, and they attacked their first post-prison meal with gusto.

The release of the prisoners resulted from the labors of the Cuban Families Committee, which worked for months raising pledges for the ransom and arranging negotiations with Castro.

Their cause was taken up by James Donovan, the New York lawyer who had arranged the U.S.-Soviet swap of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel. After a series of personal meetings with Castro dating from August, Donovan achieved the final agreement.

The liberated men were members of the brigade which waded ashore at the Bay of Pigs in the darkness of April 19, 1961, hoping to liberate their homeland from communism. Several hundred were presumed killed.

The committee estimated that 1,197 survived and were captured, and of these a few were executed. Some had been sentenced for alleged crimes in pre-Castro days. Six had been ransomed earlier by their parents, and 60 wounded and ill men had been returned for a ransom promise earlier in the year.

None Injured In Derailment

OAKLAND, Md. (AP) — Two diesel engines and a half dozen coal cars derailed at Oakland early today as the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad experienced its fourth derailment in as many days.

All four derailments occurred in Western Maryland and nearby Pennsylvania. No one was injured.

Two freight cars derailed at a water station eight miles west of Oakland Sunday evening. A crew finished clearing the track of the wreck at Deer Park and then headed for the Oakland derailment.

On Saturday more than a score of freight cars derailed in the center of Meyersdale, Pa., and one car crashed into a house.

Thirty - five cars derailed at Connellsville, Pa., on Friday and the two Pennsylvania derailments had both B&O main tracks blocked early Saturday.

The derailment at Oakland happened when a diesel engine jumped the tracks, yanking with it another diesel and six gondolas of the 78-car train.

The train's cars were loaded with coal at Grafton, W. Va. earlier today. The train was eastbound. The derailment blocked both east and west bound rtacks of the B&O's Cumberland Division.

Strike

two ILA locals claim a membership of about 3,700. But some 14,000 people who work around the docks there are idled by the strike, according to Alfred Chittenden, head of one of the locals.

At Lake Charles, La., port director John Groh said the port will lose $50,000 to $60,000 a week due to the shutdown.

Shippers say it costs a ship operator about $1,000 a day when a vessel remains docked. In New Orleans alone, about 21 vessels were at anchorage in the Mississippi River, unable to leave port. Thirty-six other ships got out, on the final day.

Fifteen hours before the walkout, President Kennedy's message asking for a postponement was read to negotiators for the ILA and the New York Shipping Association, which represents 135 American and foreign-flag firms.

Kennedy, saying a dock strike "would choke the economy and cut the nation's lifelines with the rest of the world," appealed for a 90-day delay to give a presidential board time to study the disputed contract issues and hold hearings on them.

But Thomas W. Gleason, the ILA's chief negotiator and executive vice president, told Kennedy in a telegram: "Any additional extensions would only prolong the situation and in our opinion would be fruitless."

William V. Bradley, ILA president, and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who tried to mediate the dispute, said union members would continue to handle emergency supplies and military and dangerous cargoes.

Sam joined the Boy Scouts in 1955 and became a "Queen Scout" in 1959. He served as a troop leader from 1958 through last year.

The Nigerian student has been able to visit in West Germany, Austria and Italy while a member of the students' Christian movement.

He hopes either to work in East Liverpool this summer and reside with the Morris' or continue his studies in summer school.

SAM'S BRIEF time since his arrival Saturday has been preoccupied by the Morris children, the snow and the approach of Christmas.

Strike

two ILA locals claim a membership of about 3,700. But some 14,000 people who work around the docks there are idled by the strike, according to Alfred Chittenden, head of one of the locals.

At Lake Charles, La., port director John Groh said the port will lose $50,000 to $60,000 a week due to the shutdown.

Shippers say it costs a ship operator about $1,000 a day when a vessel remains docked. In New Orleans alone, about 21 vessels were at anchorage in the Mississippi River, unable to leave port. Thirty-six other ships got out, on the final day.

Fifteen hours before the walkout, President Kennedy's message asking for a postponement was read to negotiators for the ILA and the New York Shipping Association, which represents 135 American and foreign-flag firms.

Kennedy, saying a dock strike "would choke the economy and cut the nation's lifelines with the rest of the world," appealed for a 90-day delay to give a presidential board time to study the disputed contract issues and hold hearings on them.

But Thomas W. Gleason, the ILA's chief negotiator and executive vice president, told Kennedy in a telegram: "Any additional extensions would only prolong the situation and in our opinion would be fruitless."

William V. Bradley, ILA president, and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who tried to mediate the dispute, said union members would continue to handle emergency supplies and military and dangerous cargoes.

Peace Corps Director May Run For Governor

By The Associated Press

Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps and President Kennedy's brother-in-law, says he might run for governor of Illinois, but he didn't say when, nor did he give a definite yes or no.

Asked on a taped radio-television interview program in Washington about reports linking his name with a possible race for governor, Shriver said he had always been interested in public service and "if an opportune time and an appropriate opportunity arose which fitted into my situation and to the situation in Illinois, I would be happy to consider running for office."

Frank A. Stanton, a former FBI agent, has been named chief investigator in the U.S. Bureau of Public Road's Office of Audits and Investigations. Stanton will be responsible for investigating allegations of impropriety in connection with the federal aid program.

Dr. Dorothy Ma and her daughter, Molly Kwauk, will spend their first Christmas together in 15 years following a year of waiting, a special act of Congress and a trip to Hong Kong. Dr. Ma left her daughter in Shanghai and was studying at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City when China fell to the Communists. She remained here, became a citizen and is now chief of anesthesiology at Veterans Hospital in Louisville, Ky.

Molly, 25, who is retarded and suffered from tuberculosis, was able to leave China a year ago when the Reds eased emigration rules, but an act of Congress was required for her to reach the United States. Dr. Ma flew to Hong Kong to bring her to Louisville, where they will spend Christmas together.

The Rev. Robert Hoffman was wrapped in blankets during the Sunday service at the Urbandale Community Congregational church in Des Moines, Iowa. So was his choir and congregation. The heat was off in the church—on purpose. It was part of the Iowa Council of Churches' emergency appeal for blankets to send to Algeria. After the service, when the heat was turned on, the blankets were donated to the cause.

Said the Rev. Mr. Hoffman: "A blanket may not be a sacramental element in the usual sense, but a blanket worn in church in remembrance of suffering in Algeria is not unlike bread and wine in remembrance of Christ."

Joseph P. Kennedy's personal fortune was estimated at $300 million in an article in the current issue of Fortune magazine, which says the President's father made considerable money in post-war real estate and oil ventures. The article describes the Kennedy fortune as being about one-half tied up in trust funds for Kennedy children and grandchildren.

"Real estate makes up at least one-quarter," Fortune said. "The remaining one-quarter consists of oil holdings, tax-exempt municipals, corporate stocks and other securities and millions in cash reserves, which Kennedy holds as a speculative asset."

Items to be covered in the survey include painting, plumbing, roofing, flooring, and other related repair and replacemnt projects. Repair and replacemnt of heating and air conditioning systems also will be covered.

Earlier surveys indicate that more than $13 billion were spent by owners and renters for upkeep and improvemnt of dwelling places in the United States in 1961. These expenditures were for additions, alterations, maintenance and repairs and replacements.

In addition to the questions on alterations and repairs, inquiries will be made in survey regarding consumption by American families of selected foods. Some of the foods to be covered are beef, white bread, lettuce, milk, and apples.

Two minor fires were quelled and two investigations were made by city firemen over the weekend.

The department was called to the home of William Grimm, 422 Walnut St., at 9:13 a. m. Sunday to extinguish a chimney fire. The cause was not listed.

Firemen went to Hazel Alley at 12:12 a. m. Sunday to quell a fire in the front seat of a 1957 auto owned by Robert Brown of Wellsville. The cause is unknown, firemen said.

Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Bertha Donaghy, 304 Washington St., at 9:25 p. m. yesterday to investigate an odor, but were unable to locate the source.

There was a strong odor of a refrigerant outside the building but no leaks could be detected in the interior of the home, they said.

Firemen also made a smoke investigation at Ken Buckley Cartage, Inc., 1253 Pennsylvania Ave. at 7 p. m. Saturday. Firemen said the cause was an unvented gas stove. They turned off the heating stove and aired the room.

3-Way Crash Hurts Women

Two women were hospitalized as the result of a three - car crash on Route 45 seven miles north of Wellsville Saturday afternoon at 2:20, according to the Lisbon State Highway Patrol.

Officers said the crash involved cars driven by Mrs. Audrey M. Reiss, 32, of Lisbon R.D. 2, Margaret E. McKay, 67, of Marietta and Joseph C. Henlein, 53, of Bridgeport.

Officers said the Reiss car slid left of center, struck the oncoming McKay car and then went off the right side of the highway. After both came to a halt, the Henlein car, following McKay, hit the McKay vehicle.

The Marietta woman is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with a possible skull fracture and a left knee injury. A passenger in her car, Edna Brenner, 73, of Wheeling also is in "fairly good" condition with a fractured jaw and lacerations of the right hand.

Mrs. Reiss suffered lacerations of the left knee and contusions of the right knee. Her daughter, Vicky Reiss, 6, suffered a fractured collarbone.

Mrs. Reiss and Helein both were cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

In another weekend mishap, cars driven by Jerry Kinzat, 17, of Leetonia R.D. 1 and Donald L. Whitacre, 55, of Leetonia R.D. 2 collided on Route 558 between Columbiana and Lisbon.

Two minor fires were quelled and two investigations were made by city firemen over the weekend.

The department was called to the home of William Grimm, 422 Walnut St., at 9:13 a. m. Sunday to extinguish a chimney fire. The cause was not listed.

Firemen went to Hazel Alley at 12:12 a. m. Sunday to quell a fire in the front seat of a 1957 auto owned by Robert Brown of Wellsville. The cause is unknown, firemen said.

Firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Bertha Donaghy, 304 Washington St., at 9:25 p. m. yesterday to investigate an odor, but were unable to locate the source.

There was a strong odor of a refrigerant outside the building but no leaks could be detected in the interior of the home, they said.

Firemen also made a smoke investigation at Ken Buckley Cartage, Inc., 1253 Pennsylvania Ave. at 7 p. m. Saturday. Firemen said the cause was an unvented gas stove. They turned off the heating stove and aired the room.

Christmas Came Week Early For Couple In West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Christmas came a week early for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ball of Iaeger, McDowell County.

The crippled children's division of the State Welfare Department made this known today in an announcement that the couple's only child, Clarecy Jean Ball, had undergone successful surgery for a heart defect.

The baby was one year old on Dec. 5 but was only 13 pounds, about half of what she should weigh.

Early in her young life, the family knew something was wrong. The child had chest colds and heart failure. The family doctor referred them to the crippled children's clinic at Bluefield.

Ball, 22, and his wife, 21, brought the child to a Charleston hospital on Dec. 14, but he had to return to his job at a coal company store. Mrs. Ball got a room in a private home near the hospital so that she could be with her baby.

The operation was performed at Charleston Memorial Hospital last Tuesday. The surgeon, who declined use of his name, cut and tied a blood vessel around the heart that should have closed by itself after the baby's birth. Her chance of living a normal life is good, physicians said.

The crippled children's division provided $700 to $800 of the taxpayers' money for the operation and nursing care.

Nasser Lists U.A.R. Battle Dead At 136

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser says U.A.R. army dead in border battles in Yemen have totaled 136 officers and men.

Nasser spoke Sunday in observance of the sixth anniversary of victory day, the withdrawal of the British and French invaders from Port Said in 1956.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make some vine supports on a concrete wall with out the trouble of drilling into the concrete?

A. Try pressing some dabs of plastic wood at intervals on the concrete wall. This is weatherproof, and will adhere firmly to the stone, brick, or stucco. When the plastic wood has hardened, staples can be driven into it for holding your guide wires or string.

Q. How can I deal with a couple of scratches on the enameled surface of a door?

A. The best way to repair these is with some of the original enamel, dripped into the scratches with a toothpick. After it dries, rub down with rottenstone. An easier treatment involves the filling in of the mars with a wax crayon matching the enamel color, followed by a wax polish.

Q. How can I eliminate some light scorch stains from one of my linens?

A. Wet the affected area with cold water, and then expose to the sun until the stain disappears. It may be necessary to repeat the wetting process several times.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I've got five kids and they all wear tennis shoes. I got so sick of washing the shoestrings, and I couldn't decide the best way to keep them clean. Then it finally dawned upon me to take Heloise's advice and set up a system.

My system was to buy two pair of extra tennis shoestrings, and keep a jar (I use an old fruit jar) with water and a bleach solution in it with the lid on tight. I find that if you do not cap a jar containing bleach solution, it tends to lose its strength.

Place the shoestrings in the jar and let them soak a day or so. They come clean every time. The next time you wash a pair of tennis shoes . . . you will have a bleached, clean pair of strings without waiting.

GUSSIE

DEAR HELOISE: My sink is rather big and it has the standard drain. It is rather old too. It has no garbage disposal.

My dishwater was draining from this sink very slowly as though the drain was stopped up. I should have used a plunger but I don't happen to have one.

While the sink still had dishwater in it, I placed a sponge over the drain and pressed on the sponge with the palm of my hand. This formed a suction.

The drain opened up and the water poured right through! It really cleared out the pipes and now the water is draining fine.

EDWARD KIRKLAND

DEAR HELOISE: If the handle wears out on your handbag, buy a chain belt. This is easy to attach by prying the links apart. Or, if you wish, replace the handle with a plastic belt, the same color as your purse.

MRS. ELMER PETERSON

DEAR HELOISE: I use spray bottles for many things.

I live in a tri-level house. After filling these spray bottles with different cleaners . . . I put them in the rack in which I carry my cleaning items.

In one spray bottle I have vinegar and water for the windows. In another bottle, I pour cleaner; in another, ammonia and water, etc. I find it much easier doing fingerprints every day instead of once a week.

Also, I dyed my living room rug and often someone spills something on it. When I wipe it up there is always a light spot left. Sooooo . . . I put some of the dye in a spray bottle and use the mixture to touch up the light spots on the rug.

I also dampen my hair after setting it with a spray bottle filled with water.

I have a problem I hope you can solve for me. Do you know how to keep girls' nylon dress hems from rolling up? This is a bug - a - boo. They just won't iron down.

MARLENE RHOTEN

Dear Marlene: About your little girls' nylon dress hems: Try ironing them on the wrong side. Also, take one of your fancy spray bottles and put some starch in it. Lightly spray the inside of the hem with the starch before pressing.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: Add a nutcracker to your list of the most useful things in your house. A nutcracker is wonderful for opening stuck bottle caps, etc., especially fingernail polish bottles.

A. F.

And . . . the happiest of holidays to each of you and may the good Lord bless you all.

West Virginia Records Four Road Deaths

By The Associated Press

West Virginia has recorded four highway fatalities so far during the 102-hour Christmas holiday count period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tomorrow.

The deaths, which occurred singly and in widely separated sections of the state boosted the state's 1962 road toll to 413, compared to 361 at this time one year ago.

The fatalities by days:

Sunday — Richard J. Gammons, 36, of Freman, Mercer County, fatally injured when a car in which he was riding apparently hit a slippery spot on U.S. 52 near Bluefield and plunged down a steep embankment; Gans Ridgeway, 61, of Uffington, Monongalia County, killed in a two-car collision on W. Va. 73, about three miles south of Morgantown, and Robert Samuel Haga, 19, of Cleveland, Ohio, fatally injured when his auto overturned near Milepost 19 on the West Virginia Turnpike south of Beckley.

Saturday — George H. Baxter, 51, of Flemington, struck by an auto on W. Va. 77 near his home.

State police identified the driver of the car that struck Baxter as Robert Pyle, 24, of Flemington. Trooper J. N. Liller cited Pyle for driving without an operator's license and said investigation of the accident was continuing.

350 Youngsters Feted At Legion's Yule Party

Approximately 350 children were entertained at a Christmas party Saturday afternoon by American Legion Post 374 in the Legion home in East End.

Entertainment included a Walt Disney film and numbers by pupils of the Larry Myers Dance Studio.

Santa Claus presented gifts and treats. The adults held a Christmas party Saturday evening. Dancing was a feature.

Lions love company. They live and hunt in groups and rarely kill except for food. Even in the bush, the big cats seldom attack man unless provoked.

Refreshments were banned from the Circus Maximus, Imperial Rome's municipal stadium, which often held a quarter of a million spectators of chariot races.

Citrus Crops Hit Badly

Produce Prices Boosted By Florida's 'Big Freeze'

The "big freeze" that hit Florida nearly two weeks ago now is reflected in higher prices on many lines of fruit and vegetables in area stores, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Prices went up in wholesale channels on citrus fruits and some items of fresh vegetables following the cold weather. This increase is reflected in retail markets this week.

Supplies of tomatoes were not as seriously affected as first had been feared. Staked tomatoes came through the weather in fairly good shape, although it will be a couple of weeks before top quality is restored.

Peppers suffered damage, but the Ft. Myers area reported the crop would grow out the damage, although it will be delayed. Celery, too was damaged, with smaller yields in prospect.

Price increases are in effect on these vegetables as well as squash, cucumbers, leafy vegetables such as endive and escarole and snap beans.

Florida's big orange crop suffered a serious blow with only about 10 per cent of the new crop harvested. Growers salvaged as much of the frozen fruit as possible and rushed it to processors for frozen juice concentrate.

Florida's Christmas time embargo on the shipment of citrus will allow time to spot the damage and try to maintain the quality of fresh fruit moving to markets. The supply of oranges and tangerines is more severely affected than that of grapefruit.

Head lettuce and celery price increases in this area were not as great because local supplies come from the southwestern growing area to a large extent.

In contrast to the citrus fruit picture, apples, grapes and bananas show little price change. There is still an excellent supply of good quality apples.

Meat prices have changed little. Poultry remains one of the more economical choices along with frozen fish fillets. Beef prices are showing a lot of stability with U.S. prime continuing to sell around $30 to $31 per hundred pounds and choice grades (the one commonly found in retail markets) around $28 to $29. This is about the same level as in recent weeks so retail prices should change but little.

For economy choices this week onion, potatoes, and cabbage are the outstanding choices for fresh vegetables.

Not at all affected by weather extremes were prices on dairy products. Milk, cottage cheese, and cheddar cheese are examples of items produced fairly uniformly throughout the year.

Egg prices, which had declined, recovered some of the price loss and now are largely unchanged.

Christmas... and the hope of mankind

It's Christmas!

The spirit of the season is personified in the story of the Christ Child—a story of simplicity, love and sacrifice.

It is a time to pause, to look down the corridor of centuries . . . and there at the crowded Inn in Bethlehem the story has its beginning as Mary wraps her first born son in swaddling clothes and lays him in a manger . . . and an angel tells shepherds keeping the night watches over their flocks: "... this day is born to you a Savior who is Christ the Lord."

More than nineteen centuries have since passed, and today He is the inspiration of the human race, the one unalterable, wholesome influence in a world torn by countless problems.

So we pause this Christmas season, and our minds dwell on fundamentals . . . on kindness, universal love, the spirit of giving. For a time, the spirit of the season enfolds us and the trials that are so immediate throughout the year assume a less important role for a few hours . . . a few days.

There is a kinship among us. There are outward expressions of joy and inner feelings of content as we embrace the philosophy of "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Yet, around us is a world of trouble. Conflicting ideologies, cold war, threats of nuclear attack hang over us, occupying our time and attention and demanding our continuing efforts to prevent global holocaust.

Need we ask ourselves why this paradox exists? Why, in an hour when men face possible disaster of their own making, do we find at the same time a peace within individuals that has more depth and more significance than any document ever negotiated at a conference table?

Why? Because it's Christmas.

But in our complicated, everyday world men have not yet learned to live together in peace. And we wonder. Is it too idealistic to hope that one day all men will embrace the philosophy of universal love and peace on earth? Is it too much to hope that what we now recognize as the spirit of Christmas will someday be the steadying influence in our everyday life?

Yes, it's Christmas. And in this joyous and solemn season, isn't it good that we ponder these things? For, whether we look backward down the corridor of centuries to where the story began or look forward along the pathway of the future to where it will end, we see, everlastingly, The Prince of Peace.

And there, finally, rests the hope of mankind.

I also dampen my hair after setting it with a spray bottle filled with water.

I have a problem I hope you can solve for me. Do you know how to keep girls' nylon dress hems from rolling up? This is a bug - a - boo. They just won't iron down.

MARLENE RHOTEN

Dear Marlene: About your little girls' nylon dress hems: Try ironing them on the wrong side. Also, take one of your fancy spray bottles and put some starch in it. Lightly spray the inside of the hem with the starch before pressing.

West Virginia Records Four Road Deaths

By The Associated Press

West Virginia has recorded four highway fatalities so far during the 102-hour Christmas holiday count period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight tomorrow.

The deaths, which occurred singly and in widely separated sections of the state boosted the state's 1962 road toll to 413, compared to 361 at this time one year ago.

The fatalities by days:

Sunday — Richard J. Gammons, 36, of Freman, Mercer County, fatally injured when a car in which he was riding apparently hit a slippery spot on U.S. 52 near Bluefield and plunged down a steep embankment; Gans Ridgeway, 61, of Uffington, Monongalia County, killed in a two-car collision on W. Va. 73, about three miles south of Morgantown, and Robert Samuel Haga, 19, of Cleveland, Ohio, fatally injured when his auto overturned near Milepost 19 on the West Virginia Turnpike south of Beckley.

Saturday — George H. Baxter, 51, of Flemington, struck by an auto on W. Va. 77 near his home.

State police identified the driver of the car that struck Baxter as Robert Pyle, 24, of Flemington. Trooper J. N. Liller cited Pyle for driving without an operator's license and said investigation of the accident was continuing.

350 Youngsters Feted At Legion's Yule Party

Approximately 350 children were entertained at a Christmas party Saturday afternoon by American Legion Post 374 in the Legion home in East End.

Entertainment included a Walt Disney film and numbers by pupils of the Larry Myers Dance Studio.

Santa Claus presented gifts and treats. The adults held a Christmas party Saturday evening. Dancing was a feature.

Lions love company. They live and hunt in groups and rarely kill except for food. Even in the bush, the big cats seldom attack man unless provoked.

Refreshments were banned from the Circus Maximus, Imperial Rome's municipal stadium, which often held a quarter of a million spectators of chariot races.

Citrus Crops Hit Badly

Produce Prices Boosted By Florida's 'Big Freeze'

The "big freeze" that hit Florida nearly two weeks ago now is reflected in higher prices on many lines of fruit and vegetables in area stores, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Prices went up in wholesale channels on citrus fruits and some items of fresh vegetables following the cold weather. This increase is reflected in retail markets this week.

Supplies of tomatoes were not as seriously affected as first had been feared. Staked tomatoes came through the weather in fairly good shape, although it will be a couple of weeks before top quality is restored.

Peppers suffered damage, but the Ft. Myers area reported the crop would grow out the damage, although it will be delayed. Celery, too was damaged, with smaller yields in prospect.

Price increases are in effect on these vegetables as well as squash, cucumbers, leafy vegetables such as endive and escarole and snap beans.

Florida's big orange crop suffered a serious blow with only about 10 per cent of the new crop harvested. Growers salvaged as much of the frozen fruit as possible and rushed it to processors for frozen juice concentrate.

Florida's Christmas time embargo on the shipment of citrus will allow time to spot the damage and try to maintain the quality of fresh fruit moving to markets. The supply of oranges and tangerines is more severely affected than that of grapefruit.

Head lettuce and celery price increases in this area were not as great because local supplies come from the southwestern growing area to a large extent.

In contrast to the citrus fruit picture, apples, grapes and bananas show little price change. There is still an excellent supply of good quality apples.

Meat prices have changed little. Poultry remains one of the more economical choices along with frozen fish fillets. Beef prices are showing a lot of stability with U.S. prime continuing to sell around $30 to $31 per hundred pounds and choice grades (the one commonly found in retail markets) around $28 to $29. This is about the same level as in recent weeks so retail prices should change but little.

For economy choices this week onion, potatoes, and cabbage are the outstanding choices for fresh vegetables.

Not at all affected by weather extremes were prices on dairy products. Milk, cottage cheese, and cheddar cheese are examples of items produced fairly uniformly throughout the year.

Egg prices, which had declined, recovered some of the price loss and now are largely unchanged.

Christmas... and the hope of mankind

It's Christmas!

The spirit of the season is personified in the story of the Christ Child—a story of simplicity, love and sacrifice.

It is a time to pause, to look down the corridor of centuries . . . and there at the crowded Inn in Bethlehem the story has its beginning as Mary wraps her first born son in swaddling clothes and lays him in a manger . . . and an angel tells shepherds keeping the night watches over their flocks: ". . . this day is born to you a Savior who is Christ the Lord."

More than nineteen centuries have since passed, and today He is the inspiration of the human race, the one unalterable, wholesome influence in a world torn by countless problems.

So we pause this Christmas season, and our minds dwell on fundamentals . . . on kindness, universal love, the spirit of giving. For a time, the spirit of the season enfolds us and the trials that are so immediate throughout the year assume a less important role for a few hours . . . a few days.

There is a kinship among us. There are outward expressions of joy and inner feelings of content as we embrace the philosophy of "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Yet, around us is a world of trouble. Conflicting ideologies, cold war, threats of nuclear attack hang over us, occupying our time and attention and demanding our continuing efforts to prevent global holocaust.

Need we ask ourselves why this paradox exists? Why, in an hour when men face possible disaster of their own making, do we find at the same time a peace within individuals that has more depth and more significance than any document ever negotiated at a conference table?

Why? Because it's Christmas.

But in our complicated, everyday world men have not yet learned to live together in peace. And we wonder. Is it too idealistic to hope that one day all men will embrace the philosophy of universal love and peace on earth? Is it too much to hope that what we now recognize as the spirit of Christmas will someday be the steadying influence in our everyday life?

Yes, it's Christmas. And in this joyous and solemn season, isn't it good that we ponder these things? For, whether we look backward down the corridor of centuries to where the story began or look forward along the pathway of the future to where it will end, we see, everlastingly, The Prince of Peace.

And there, finally, rests the hope of mankind.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a worried father who is appealing to you for help.

We have only one child, a son 10 years of age. My wife insists on putting hair curlers on this boy at night. I think she also puts a bleach in his shampoo water because his hair seems to be getting lighter.

When the boy was younger she dressed him in fussy clothes and put lipstick and nail polish on him. She thought it looked cute. She kept his hair in long curls until he was 5. I insisted on a haircut before he started to school.

Now I am seriously concerned because he likes to dress up in his mother's clothes and he'd rather play with girls than boys. Also he likes dolls and pays no attention to trains, trucks or boy games.

Please tell me what to do before we have a real problem on our hands. — DAD.

Dear Dad: You have a real problem now. Children who are treated as if they were members of the opposite sex often grow up to be homosexuals. Both your wife and your son need professional help.

The doctor may suggest adopting a little girl or taking a foster child into your home. Then perhaps your wife would stop trying to make a girl out of her son.

In the meantime you can take him fishing, to ball games and out hiking. Introduce him to the male world and encourage him to be a part of it.

Prodigal Son

Dear Ann: We are hard-working, middle-income people. Our five children are grown and married. All of them get along well except our youngest son.

Hal never was able to manage on his income. Five years ago he borrowed a few thousand dollars from his brother to buy a house. Two years later he sold the house, bought a new car and rented an apartment. He never paid his brother back, nor has he ever mentioned the debt.

Last year Hal was evicted for nonpayment of rent so we let him live, rent-free, in a home which we own. We even paid his utility bills, but that wasn't enough. Now he is trying to borrow from us again.

The whole family is disgusted with him and I'm so upset I don't know what to do. Do parents have the right to say no to a son who can't seem to make it? — CONSCIENCE STRICKEN.

Dear Stricken: Parents not only have the right to say no, they have an obligation. You are in trouble now because you didn't say no long ago. The rent-free bit (plus utilities yet) was no favor, it only delayed the day of reckoning. When Hal finds no one is going to be there with a safety net he'll stop jumping.

Big Man Hunt

Dear Ann: Our daughter, 21, is being graduated from college in June. She and two girl friends are the only ones in their group who are not engaged or married. To listen to them talk you'd think they were ready for the "Old Folks Home."

College to them is the "Happy Hunting Ground." Failing there, they feel they are doomed to spinsterhood.

It's awful to see these girls so panicky. I'm afraid they might settle for anything in trousers between now and June just to prove they can get a man. Do you have any thoughts on this? — SAN JOSE.

Dear Jose: The herd instinct is powerful. It takes maturity to keep from settling for a second-rater when you smell the orange blossoms all around you.

There is statistical evidence that the girl who waits until she is at least 22 stands a far better chance of enjoying a lasting marriage.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Little Change Expected In 1963 Farm Picture

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a year-end look ahead, the Agriculture Department says it still expects little overall change in the farm situation in 1963.

Farmers are likely to realize about the same net income in 1963 as the $12.8 billion estimated for 1962, the department said. Gross returns are expected to go up a bit, but the gain is likely to be offset by further increases in farm production costs.

This projection is in line with one made at an outlook conference of farm experts here in the fall.

The U.S. market for farm products is expected to go up about in line with population growth. Exports are expected to hold at around the record level of the last year. Farm production in 1963 is likely, the agency said, to be as large or a little larger next year than this, assuming, of course, normal weather.

"Lower prices to farmers for livestock and products are expected because of increased marketings," the department said. "Not much change is likely for crops."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Incorporating the family farm may be a wise move for many farmers, the Agriculture Department says.

A farmer, like any other businessman, can organize his operation several ways. He can run it himself, he can manage it with a partner or he can incorporate.

The department said in a report that sole proprietorship is difficult to transfer from one generation to another. When there is more than one heir, the farm business must often be sold after the death of the owner in order to divide the estate among survivors.

"The chief value of incorporation," the department states, "is in making it possible for farm families to share equally in an estate without dividing or selling the farm. By giving his family shares of stock, the farmer can pass the operation intact to a son who wants to stay on the land while giving other heirs a fair share of the income from the farm."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department has come up with a measurement of the increase in efficiency of dairy farmers.

It said that in 1961 dairy farms produced 23 per cent more milk per man-hour of work used than they averaged in the 1957-59 period. No figures were available for 1962, but officials said doubtless there has been a further increase in efficiency this year.

This increase in efficiency — reflecting mechanization in feeding and milking cows and the handling milk — was much faster than in the past.

Christmas Gifts Taken In Looting Of Couple's Auto

A North Side couple told police Christmas gifts which they had intended for their children and grandchildren were stolen Saturday night or Sunday by a thief who forced entrance to their locked car in front of their home.

The theft was reported Sunday at 10 a.m. by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bromley, 929 Montgomery Ave. They said they loaded the auto with gifts Saturday and intended to put the car in the family garage, but were unable to do so because of slippery street conditions.

They locked the auto and left it parked in front of their home. The thief forced the right front wing window, opened the door and took the gifts, they reported.

Meanwhile, Robert Bickar, 718 Lincoln Ave., told police Saturday morning a thief forced the trunk of his car Friday or early Saturday while it was parked at his home and removed a 7.50-x-14 tire and wheel.

Aliens' Registration Slated For January

The annual registration of aliens residing in the U. S. will be held in January, according to Thomas M. Pederson, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service at Cleveland.

Pederson urged all aliens to comply with the reporting requirements, pointing out willful failure to act may lead to charges under federal law.

State Patrol Sets Enforcement To Cut Road Deaths

The Ohio Highway Patrol barracks at Lisbon, joining other posts throughout the state, plans tight enforcement of traffic laws as one way of cutting the holiday traffic toll, Sgt. E. W. Mallery, commander, said today.

He urged motorists to watch speed limits and obey the rules of the road, particularly in showing courtesy to other drivers.

"Christmas and New Year's holidays traditionally are the happiest times of the year, but they also are the deadliest in traffic," Sgt. Mallery said.

"Unless motorists change their driving habits, it is inevitable that they will be sad occasions for many."

Because the two holidays fall on Tuesday, the observance will stretch from Friday until Wednesday for many persons. Last year, when Christmas and New Year's fell on Monday, Ohio counted 41 deaths and 2,350 injuries.

The toll this year may rise to 52 deaths and 3,000 injuries because of the longer observance, Sgt. Mallery said.

Burma Presses Soviet For $10 Million Due

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Burma's military government is pressing the Soviet Union for payment of some $10 million owed for rice shipped in 1954, the newspaper Hanthawaddy reported today.

The paper said Burma reluctantly agreed to accept agricultural machinery instead of cash. When the first samples arrived, the Burmese balked because the quality was poor and the machines outdated.

The Department of Agriculture established its Section of Seed and Plant Introduction in 1897.

Bing Sings While Ben Rests

Hal Humphrey

Bing Crosby saw to this by pre-empting Ben Casey's hour tonight for the second Crosby ABC TV special of the year (10 p.m.)

Casey and Zorba can't kick, because Bing is boss of the film company which turns out the Ben Casey series.

AS FOR THE VIEWERS, they probably will find that Bing and guest Mary Martin come closer to that so-called true meaning of Christmas than Casey performing a frontal lobotomy.

"We'll be singing mostly," says Bing of the show. "I like to keep the patter to a minimum. Unless you've got something new to say, it's better to duck it.

"There's very little entertainment in my saying to Mary, 'Hey, it's been a long time, gal.' Sinatra and I wore that line out a long time ago," adds Bing.

This marks the first time Bing and Mary have worked together in TV (they've done three movies and countless radio shows together), and this is Bing's first color TV show—just in case you may be interested in TV "firsts."

BESIDES MARY, Bing's only other name guest is pianist-composer Andre Previn. By the time Bing got through paying Mary's salary, the show's budget was pretty well depleted. ("She gets a fair figure," says Bing.)

For the finale to the hour, Bing and Mary are joined by 90 young sprouts forming a United Nations choir for the singing of "White Christmas." Kate Smith singing "America" in full voice hardly could top that for a finish.

Bing's own voice sounds as good as ever, although for the past 10 years he's kept insisting it's "over the hill."

"I never know how it will come out," he says. "As a result, I've made more comebacks than Melba."

TO HEDGE against the day when his pipes get too rusty for singing, Bing is thinking about a dramatic anthology series for TV, which he would host and sometimes play guest-star actor the way Fred Astaire has been doing. His own film company would produce it.

After the Christmas Eve special with Mary Martin, Bing is a free agent again. The current three-year contract with ABC-TV expires then.

Bing was a little peeved at ABC last year when it didn't buy a new Bing Crosby Enterprises pilot film for a series titled "Come a'Runnin' " with a new young actor named Linden Chiles.

Later, CBS got interested, but ABC wouldn't bend its exclusivity lien with Bing. If ABC comes up with enough scratch for his anthology series, such misunderstandings no doubt will be forgotten.

IF THINGS come to the worst and Bing finds himself unemployed, he probably can get by with the rent he collects from subletting his lush desert home south of Palm Springs, Calif.

His No. 1 tenant recently has been President Kennedy, who has availed himself of Bing's place on two occasions.

"It's a good arrangement for him, because the house is up against a mountain," says Bing. "The Secret Service boys like it for that reason, and they get to relax more. The President pays the rent right on the nose, too. Sent me a nice little gift this last time."

BING DIDN'T SAY what the gift was, but for a broken-down singer who has everything, you've got to come up with more than just the Hope Diamond.

Another economic hedge for Bing is wife Kathy, who he reports has been studying the past five years to be a nurse.

"I think she's about to get that diploma," says he, "and when that happens she's going to be after me for a role in 'Ben Casey.' I've seen that look in her eye every time she tunes it in."

Sharpshooting Tigers Rout ELHS

BY BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A sharpshooting Massillon High club looked like it was right at home at Memorial Auditorium Saturday night by ripping through a very weak Potter defense for a 71-50 victory.

A crowd close to 1,000 saw the Potters drop their fifth game in six starts and their third straight contest in the Big 8 Conference where they are buried deep in the cellar.

COACH Nick Vrotsos' Tigers found the win trail over the week-end and posted their second straight victory and stand 2-2 for the season. Massillon has a 2-1 mark in Conference play.

The visitors scored from close in most of the evening as East Liverpool failed to do much about stopping the onslaught.

The Potters were out of the contest almost from the start and never led. Massillon took a 15-10 lead at the end of the first period but the end really came in the second quarter when the Tigers scored 27 points as 5-foot-11 Floyd Pierce had the range zeroed in for 12 points in that period.

At halftime the Potters were behind, 42-19, and never regained their balance as the third quarter found the locals trailing, 54-33.

PIERCE, who is just getting over a heart operation, only played the first half but scored 17 points. It was Pierce in the first half and Ed Buchanan, 6-foot-3 pivot star, in the second half. Buchanan wound up as high scorer for Massillon with 18 points, but 14 markers came in the second half.

Dean Cline was the whole show for the Potters again. He had very little help from his teammates. Cline came up with another outstanding performance, scoring 28 points which showed 10 field goals and eight of 10 foul shots.

His season total for six games is 145 points for an average of 24.1 per contest.

THE POTTER star was consistent again as he has been in the last five games. His scoring was balanced throughout the contest, with nine points in the fourth quarter his best eight minutes.

The other starting four players for the Potters only accounted for 11 points, to point out that they were not much help in another losing cause.

After Cline, Coach Jim Harris is almost lost for an offensive punch. Dave Bowersock, a junior and starting guard, hasn't scored a field goal in the last two contests while Frank McComas, who played better than three quarters Saturday, scored two baskets but was held scoreless from the field Friday night.

ED PRENTICE tallied one fielder and missed six straight foul shots, and Roger Linville scored one bucket and was three-for-seven from the foul line. Substitute Tom Kraft added five points to the Potters' total.

Cline Hits 28 In 5th Loss

Massillon had a good shooting outfit, hitting 46 per cent on 31 of 67 shots. East Liverpool came up with a 27 per cent shooting mark on 17 of 62 attempts. The Potters also were poor from the foul line, hitting only 16 of 32.

The Tigers showed four starters in the double figures. Behind Buchanan and Pierce were Dick Gerber with 15 and Bill Blunt, a tough little defensive man, with 12 markers.

The Potters take a rest now, being idle for the next 12 days until Jan. 5 when they meet Youngstown South in a Saturday night game at the MA.

Sudden Death Playoff Ends On Field Goal

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — A slight drizzle ticked off Tommy Brooker's helmet. The clock showed 2 minutes, 54 seconds of the second sudden death overtime period. The opposing lines tensed as the ball was snapped back. Len Dawson put the ball down on the 25-yard line stripe.

Brooker kicked and the Dallas Texans were the champions of the American Football league with a 20-17 decision over Houston's two-time titlists in the longest game in professional football history.

The game turned out to be a three-part production. Dallas won the first half 17-0. Houston took the second half by the same score. Then they went to the finale before an overflow crowd of 37,981 and a national television audience.

Bill Hull intercepted a George Blanda pass after the Oilers had moved to the 35. Hull lugged it back 23 yards. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes gained 10. Spikes rambled 19 to the Houston 19 and the Texans were in range. Brooker then booted the winner.

Brooker's three-pointer was worth a winning share of $2,261.80 for each Texan. Each member of the Oilers gets $1,471,09. Both figures are AFL records.

Potter Subs Notch Fifth Straight Win

The East Liverpool reserves, in contrast to the varsity, continued their winning ways by posting their fifth straight victory against one defeat with a 46-39 win over Massillon Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium.

Dave Oliver led the attack with 14 points while Garcia connected for 10 markers to take scoring honors for Massillon.

The young Potters took a 19-6 lead and were never in much trouble after the first period.

The only loss suffered by Coach Frank Chan's reserves came in the opener at Midland.

Warriors Given Chance To Climb Higher In NBA

By The Associated Press

The San Francisco Warriors, who have streaked from the cellar into third place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, get a chance to gain ground on the No. 2 team, the St. Louis Hawks, Tuesday night.

The teams meet in the opener of a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden while the Syracuse Nationals and New York Knickerbockers clash in the second game. Detroit is at Cincinnati in the only other game.

No games were scheduled Sunday and none are on tap tonight.

In Saturday night's action, San Francisco defeated Syracuse 123-118, New York turned back Boston 120-106 and Detroit defeated Chicago 122-110.

The Warriors-Nats game was not decided until the final 29 seconds when San Francisco trailed 118-117. At that point, Tom Meschery put the Warriors ahead to stay with a jump shot. Seconds later, he clinched the verdict with a three-point play.

The first transcontinental air-mail service in the United States started Feb. 22, 1921, when a plane left San Francisco and arrived in New York the following day, 33 hours and 20 minutes later.

Rose Bowl Teams Turn To Serious Business

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Southern California and Wisconsin, a couple of football teams with reputations to uphold, got down to serious business today for the Rose Bowl meeting New Year's Day.

The Trojans, rated the nation's No. 1 power after 10 straight victories this season, went behind closed gates to prepare for the invasion of the Big Ten champions from Wisconsin.

The Badgers, edgy and anxious for work after a tiring trip to Pasadena, planned a two-hour muscle-flexing workout for West Coast observers before hanging out a "no visitors" sign for the last six practice sessions.

The Badgers, rated just behind Southern Cal in The Associated Press poll after an 8-1 campaign, found a day of mere sightseeing too much to take. They finished by doing some impromptu jogging —without a football—to rid themselves of "plane" legs.

Wisconsin's 44-man traveling squad arrived at Pasadena more than four hours late Saturday because of plane trouble and national weather conditions which delayed a chartered flight from Madison. The players were in an unhappy mood despite smiles flashed for the official welcome by tournament of roses queen Nancy Davis and six princesses.

Sharpshooting Tigers Rout ELHS

★ ★ ★ Cline Hits 28 In 5th Loss ★ ★ ★

BY BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A sharpshooting Massillon High club looked like it was right at home at Memorial Auditorium Saturday night by ripping through a very weak Potter defense for a 71-50 victory.

A crowd close to 1,000 saw the Potters drop their fifth game in six starts and their third straight contest in the Big 8 Conference where they are buried deep in the cellar.

COACH Nick Vrotsos' Tigers found the win trail over the weekend and posted their second straight victory and stand 2-2 for the season. Massillon has a 2-1 mark in Conference play.

The visitors scored from close in most of the evening as East Liverpool failed to do much about stopping the onslaught.

The Potters were out of the contest almost from the start and never led. Massillon took a 15-10 lead at the end of the first period but the end really came in the second quarter when the Tigers scored 27 points as 5-foot-11 Floyd Pierce had the range zeroed in for 12 points in that period.

At halftime the Potters were behind, 42-19, and never regained their balance as the third quarter found the locals trailing, 54-33.

PIERCE, who is just getting over a heart operation, only played the first half but scored 17 points. It was Pierce in the first half and Ed Buchanan, 6-foot-3 pivot star, in the second half. Buchanan wound up as high scorer for Massillon with 18 points, but 14 markers came in the second half.

Dean Cline was the whole show for the Potters again. He had very little help from his teammates. Cline came up with another outstanding performance, scoring 28 points which showed 10 field goals and eight of 10 foul shots.

His season total for six games is 145 points for an average of 24.1 per contest.

THE POTTER star was consistent again as he has been in the last five games. His scoring was balanced throughout the contest, with nine points in the fourth quarter his best eight minutes.

The other starting four players for the Potters only accounted for 11 points, to point out that they were not much help in another losing cause.

After Cline, Coach Jim Harris is almost lost for an offensive punch. Dave Bowersock, a junior and starting guard, hasn't scored a field goal in the last two contests while Frank McComas, who played better than three quarters Saturday, scored two baskets but was held scoreless from the field Friday night.

ED PRENTICE tallied one fielder and missed six straight foul shots, and Roger Linville scored one bucket and was three-for-seven from the foul line. Substitute Tom Kraft added five points to the Potters' total.

Massillon had a good shooting outfit, hitting 46 per cent on 31 of 67 shots. East Liverpool came up with a 27 per cent shooting mark on 17 of 62 attempts. The Potters also were poor from the foul line, hitting only 16 of 32.

The Tigers showed four starters in the double figures. Behind Buchanan and Pierce were Dick Gerber with 15 and Bill Blunt, a tough little defensive man, with 12 markers.

The Potters take a rest now, being idle for the next 12 days until Jan. 5 when they meet Youngstown South in a Saturday night game at the MA.

Sudden Death Playoff Ends On Field Goal

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — A slight drizzle ticked off Tommy Brooker's helmet. The clock showed 2 minutes, 54 seconds of the second sudden death overtime period. The opposing lines tensed as the ball was snapped back. Len Dawson put the ball down on the 25-yard line stripe.

Brooker kicked and the Dallas Texans were the champions of the American Football league with a 20-17 decision over Houston's two-time titlists in the longest game in professional football history.

The game turned out to be a three-part production. Dallas won the first half 17-0. Houston took the second half by the same score. Then they went to the finale before an overflow crowd of 37,981 and a national television audience.

Bill Hull intercepted a George Blanda pass after the Oilers had moved to the 35. Hull lugged it back 23 yards. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes gained 10. Spikes rambled 19 to the Houston 19 and the Texans were in range. Brooker then booted the winner.

Brooker's three-pointer was worth a winning share of $2,261.80 for each Texan. Each member of the Oilers gets $1,471.09. Both figures are AFL records.

Warriors Given Chance To Climb Higher In NBA

By The Associated Press

The San Francisco Warriors, who have streaked from the cellar into third place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, get a chance to gain ground on the No. 2 team, the St. Louis Hawks, Tuesday night.

The teams meet in the opener of a doubleheader in Madison Square Garden while the Syracuse Nationals and New York Knickerbockers clash in the second game. Detroit is at Cincinnati in the only other game.

No games were scheduled Sunday and none are on tap tonight.

In Saturday night's action, San Francisco defeated Syracuse 123-118, New York turned back Boston 120-106 and Detroit defeated Chicago 122-110.

The Warriors-Nats game was not decided until the final 29 seconds when San Francisco trailed 118-117. At that point, Tom Meschery put the Warriors ahead to stay with a jump shot. Seconds later, he clinched the verdict with a three-point play.

The first transcontinental air-mail service in the United States started Feb. 22, 1921, when a plane left San Francisco and arrived in New York the following day, 33 hours and 20 minutes later.

Rose Bowl Teams Turn To Serious Business

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Southern California and Wisconsin, a couple of football teams with reputations to uphold, got down to serious business today for the Rose Bowl meeting New Year's Day.

The Trojans, rated the nation's No. 1 power after 10 straight victories this season, went behind closed gates to prepare for the invasion of the Big Ten champions from Wisconsin.

The Badgers, edgy and anxious for work after a tiring trip to Pasadena, planned a two-hour muscle-flexing workout for West Coast observers before hanging out a "no visitors" sign for the last six practice sessions.

The Badgers, rated just behind Southern Cal in The Associated Press poll after an 8-1 campaign, found a day of mere sightseeing too much to take. They finished by doing some impromptu jogging —without a football—to rid themselves of "plane" legs.

Wisconsin's 44-man traveling squad arrived at Pasadena more than four hours late Saturday because of plane trouble and national weather conditions which delayed a chartered flight from Madison. The players were in an unhappy mood despite smiles flashed for the official welcome by tournament of roses queen Nancy Davis and six princesses.

Bearcats Play Once During Holidays

Cincy Will Almost Rest As Others Eye Tourneys

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Several of the nation's leading college basketball teams run smack into the heavy holiday tournament schedule this week. But it's likely to be a real holiday for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats.

While six of the top ten teams are engaged in tournament competition and three others have two games booked, the Bearcats play only once. They go against Ohio University (3-3) Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola takes on Arkansas in the opening round of Oklahoma City's All-College Tourney Wednesday. Mississippi State, No. 5, meets Houston in the Sugar Bowl Tourney Friday. Colorado, No. 6, plays Kansas Wednesday in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City and 10th-ranked Seattle faces California Thursday in the Far West Classic at Portland.

West Virginia, rated seventh, and Illinois, No. 8, move into Madison Square Garden for the Holiday Festival Wednesday. The Mountaineers play Boston College while Illinois hooks up with unbeaten Pennsylvania.

Kentucky, ranked ninth, has regular games with Dartmouth and Notre Dame. Duke, No. 2, faces Princeton and Wake Forest while Ohio State, No. 3, hits the road to meet Baylor and Wichita.

The Bearcats had an easy time last Saturday night while rolling up their 26th consecutive triumph and eighth this season with a 72-46 conquest of Davidson.

Three top-ranked teams—Colorado, West Virginia and Seattle—were defeated.

Colorado lost to Arizona 60-52. Kentucky edged West Virginia 97-75 in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and Loyola of Chicago, unbeaten in seven games, downed Seattle 93-83.

There were other surprising developments as Notre Dame and Virginia Tech were bounced out of the undefeated ranks. Butler, which had lost six of seven games, ended the Irish six-game winning streak 66-59 and Vanderbilt turned back Virginia Tech 80-72 in overtime.

Ohio State came through as expected in beating Detroit 101-66 and Illinois dumped Oklahoma 93-90. Duke and Mississippi State were idle.

In other leading games, Pennsylvania edged St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 78-77 in three overtimes; Arizona State blasted Minnesota 98-79; Stanford, unbeaten in seven games, routed Texas 72-46; Wichita beat Louisville 81-63; UCLA beat Wisconsin 77-63; DePaul whipped Marquette 79-72 and unbeaten Southern California won its ninth in a row by defeating Nebraska 55-53.

In other tournament finals, Oklahoma State beat Drake 61-59 in the Long Beach, Calif., Classic, and Gonzaga downed North Texas 86-75 in the Eastern Montana Holiday event.

Chou Planning Border Treaty With Mongolia

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai has initiated negotiations for a border treaty with Mongolia, Central Asian country which forms a buffer between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The Russians probably will consider the move as scratching at their back door. Mongolia announced early this year that it was siding with Moscow in the ideological dispute with Peking.

80-Yard TD Dash Steals Thunder In North-South

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"This is the biggest thrill of my life—being the first of my race to play for the South," said Willie Richardson before the annual North-South football game. "I have a greater desire to play well in this game than in any other in my life."

The Negro star from little Jackson State of Mississippi capped a brilliant performance in the all-star contest on a 80-yard touchdown play with 37 seconds remaining that carried the South to a 15-14 triumph over the North last Saturday.

In the other post-season collegiate classics on a three-game program, Bill Tobin raced 77 yards for a touchdown as Missouri upset Georgia Tech 14-10 in the Bluebonnet Bowl and Joe Lapesky scored four touchdowns in Houston's 49-21 rout of Miami of Ohio in the Tangerine Bowl.

The Orange Bowl in Miami was Richardson's stage as he broke the South's color line and twice crossed the goal line. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Little All-America selection joined Florida A&M's Bob Paramore as the first Negroes to be picked for the squad from Dixie.

Richardson was voted the South's most valuable player. Paramore added another laurel for his race by winning the Sportsmanship Award for a fine running performance despite a bad ankle.

At Houston, Missouri of the Big Eight Conference and Georgia Tech of the Southeastern were locked in a defensive struggle until a key block by Andy Russell broke Tobin loose for his long jaunt and gave the Tigers a 14-7 edge in the third quarter.

At Orlando, Fla., it was sophomore halfback Lapasky who made the difference. He scored on runs of 3 and 4 yards, returning a punt 70 yards for another TD and wound up the high-scoring game on a 13-yard scoring pass from Billy Roland.

The Steers' triumph gave them a four-game lead over Long Beach. Each has lost seven games but Kansas City has won 22 to 14 for the Chiefs. In the only other game played over the weekend, fourth-place Oakland defeated last place Chicago 112-103 in overtime Saturday night.

Bearcats Play Once During Holidays

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Several of the nation's leading college basketball teams run smack into the heavy holiday tournament schedule this week. But it's likely to be a real holiday for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats.

While six of the top ten teams are engaged in tournament competition and three others have two games booked, the Bearcats play only once. They go against Ohio University (3-3) Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola takes on Arkansas in the opening round of Oklahoma City's All-College Tourney Wednesday. Mississippi State, No. 5, meets Houston in the Sugar Bowl Tourney Friday. Colorado, No. 6, plays Kansas Wednesday in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City and 10th-ranked Seattle faces California Thursday in the Far West Classic at Portland.

West Virginia, rated seventh, and Illinois, No. 8, move into Madison Square Garden for the Holiday Festival Wednesday. The Mountaineers play Boston College while Illinois hooks up with unbeaten Pennsylvania.

Kentucky, ranked ninth, has regular games with Dartmouth and Notre Dame. Duke, No. 2, faces Princeton and Wake Forest while Ohio State, No. 3, hits the road to meet Baylor and Wichita.

The Bearcats had an easy time last Saturday night while rolling up their 26th consecutive triumph and eighth this season with a 72-46 conquest of Davidson.

Three top-ranked teams—Colorado, West Virginia and Seattle—were defeated.

Colorado lost to Arizona 60-52. Kentucky edged West Virginia 97-75 in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and Loyola of Chicago, unbeaten in seven games, downed Seattle 93-83.

There were other surprising developments as Notre Dame and Virginia Tech were bounced out of the undefeated ranks. Butler, which had lost six of seven games, ended the Irish six-game winning streak 66-59 and Vanderbilt turned back Virginia Tech 80-72 in overtime.

Ohio State came through as expected in beating Detroit 101-66 and Illinois dumped Oklahoma 93-90. Duke and Mississippi State were idle.

In other leading games, Pennsylvania edged St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 78-77 in three overtimes; Arizona State blasted Minnesota 98-79; Stanford, unbeaten in seven games, routed Texas 72-46; Wichita beat Louisville 81-63; UCLA beat Wisconsin 77-63; DePaul whipped Marquette 79-72 and unbeaten Southern California won its ninth in a row by defeating Nebraska 55-53.

In other tournament finals, Oklahoma State beat Drake 61-59 in the Long Beach, Calif., Classic, and Gonzaga downed North Texas 86-75 in the Eastern Montana Holiday event.

Chou Planning Border Treaty With Mongolia

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai has initiated negotiations for a border treaty with Mongolia, Central Asian country which forms a buffer between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The Russians probably will consider the move as scratching at their back door. Mongolia announced early this year that it was siding with Moscow in the ideological dispute with Peking.

80-Yard TD Dash Steals Thunder In North-South

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"This is the biggest thrill of my life—being the first of my race to play for the South," said Willie Richardson before the annual North-South football game. "I have a greater desire to play well in this game than in any other in my life."

The Negro star from little Jackson State of Mississippi capped a brilliant performance in the all-star contest on a 80-yard touchdown play with 37 seconds remaining that carried the South to a 15-14 triumph over the North last Saturday.

In the other post-season collegiate classics on a three-game program, Bill Tobin raced 77 yards for a touchdown as Missouri upset Georgia Tech 14-10 in the Bluebonnet Bowl and Joe Lapesky scored four touchdowns in Houston's 49-21 rout of Miami of Ohio in the Tangerine Bowl.

The Orange Bowl in Miami was Richardson's stage as he broke the South's color line and twice crossed the goal line. The 6-foot-2, 200-pound Little All-America selection joined Florida A&M's Bob Paramore as the first Negroes to be picked for the squad from Dixie.

Richardson was voted the South's most valuable player. Paramore added another laurel for his race by winning the Sportsmanship Award for a fine running performance despite a bad ankle.

At Houston, Missouri of the Big Eight Conference and Georgia Tech of the Southeastern were locked in a defensive struggle until a key block by Andy Russell broke Tobin loose for his long jaunt and gave the Tigers a 14-7 edge in the third quarter.

At Orlando, Fla., it was sophomore halfback Lapasky who made the difference. He scored on runs of 3 and 4 yards, returning a punt 70 yards for another TD and wound up the high-scoring game on a 13-yard scoring pass from Billy Roland.

Five Injured In Derailment Of Two Trains

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Work crews expect to labor through Christmas clearing tracks of the wreckage left by a spectacular derailment involving two Erie-Lackawanna freight trains west of here.

Three men, including one engineer, were treated and released at hospitals here. Two other trainmen were admitted to Spencer Hospital in Meadville, Pa., for observation.

The engineer of the westbound train, Jack Hovis, 34, of Cochranton, Pa., jammed on his emergency brakes to avoid hitting the derailed car. This caused a car half a mile back in the middle of his own 122-car train to leave the tracks.

The lead engine on the 121-car eastbound train plowed into that car.

The engineer of the eastbound train, Louis Wright, 45, of Sagertown, Pa., was not hurt. Hovis received hospital treatment. Glen Webster, 50, of Townville, Pa., and Carl Sigrist, 52, of Meadville were reported in satisfactory condition in the Meadville hospital. Webster was a fireman and Sigrist head brakeman on the eastbound train.

The accident occurred just east of the Trumbull-Portage County line.

Four crews, including men from Youngstown, Kent and Marion, were hampered in their clean-up operations by deeply banked snow.

The railroad said traffic was being rerouted through Leavittsburg and Kent on tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The two trains were making runs between Kent, Ohio, and Meadville.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Unhappy Thin Girl Asks For Help

Three-year-old Monica is dawdling over her food. "Eat this, Monica," commands the mother, but Monica dawdles on. Aunt Becky at the table says, "You are spoiling that child. Why don't you do something?" Grandma adds, "If she were my child, I'd make her eat." Under these pressures, the mother seizes Monica and tries to force a big spoonful of carrots into her. Monica closes her lips and teeth against the spoon but the mother pries them open and pushes some carrots into her. The youngster doesn't chew them but holds them in her mouth. As the mother tries to force a second spoonful into the defenseless little girl, she gags and finally vomits.

"THERE, YOU SEE what happens!" the mother angrily informs the older persons.

In the first place, Grandma and Aunt Becky should have kept their own mouths shut and minded their own business; they should not have even noticed Monica and her eating problem.

Unless these oldsters could so restrain themselves, they should not have been at the dinner table when Monica was there. Or Monica might better have had her meal elsewhere with her mother.

In either case, the mother should have placed only one or two disks of carrots before Monica, or no more of some other essential food and she should not have told Monica to eat it. Most of all, she should not have pushed the food into this child who was old enough to feed herself.

IF MONICA DID not choose to eat that very small portion of food in a reasonable time, the mother should, perhaps, have explained quietly, "You may have no other food unless you choose to eat this," and have kept her word.

She should have removed the food without saying another word or showing any anger and have let Monica leave the table, making sure she had no other food, except fruit juice perhaps, until the next regular mealtime.

Young children hold food in the mouth, gag or vomit because food is forced into them. They eat when they are hungry.

Instead of telling them to eat or putting food into them against their will, keep food away from them until they get hungry enough to eat a bit of almost anything offered them.

Of course Monica might have chosen to eat well if there were milder ways—if no one had said a word about her eating and if she had a number of foods from which to choose.

THE RESOURCEFUL mother can find all sorts of substitutes providing the necessary items of nourishment. But this procedure can become a costly nuisance.

In any event, the mother needs to avoid all talk and show of vexation over the youngster who doesn't choose to eat what is offered her.

My bulletins, "Stubborness" and "Eating Problems: Their Prevention and Solution I and II", may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Woman Faces Quiz In Husband's Death

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Mrs. Diana Louise Garten, 19, for questioning today about the death of her husband, Carl, 45, who died after being stabbed with a butcher knife.

Officers said Garten, a tavern operator, was stabbed following a domestic argument Sunday.

Cleveland's Police Probe Is Completed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Police Chief Frank W. Story says investigation of the recent police scandal is complete and "we have now completely eradicated the cancer."

The investigation was triggered by the arrest early this month of a West Side patrolman who admitted thefts totaling some $3,000 over an 18-month period from establishments on his beat. The patrolman, William Marlowe, named 10 other patrolmen as being involved, but only two were indicted by a grand jury that heard evidence in the case.

Asked about a statement made by a man now in Ohio Penitentiary concerning alleged theft of liquor from a state store, Chief Story said the matter had been investigated thoroughly "and is completely false."

The chief was interviewed Sunday on KYW-TV's "Open Circuit."

"This rumor was started in May of 1961 by a burglar we caught in a haberdashery," the chief said. "He committed some 20 crimes. He was breaking ADT tapes on stores, setting off the alarms. He then committed the crimes after the alarms were turned off. Investigation has proved that police were in no way involved."

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle announced last week he was sending Cleveland authorities a file concerning statements by a prisoner who said nearly a year ago he had knowledge of burglaries by members of the Cleveland police department.

Findlay Woman Dies Of Wreck Injuries

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, John, who received minor injuries. Their daughter, Jane Stitt, 22, remained in critical condition in the hospital with a punctured chest.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Safecrackers took $12,000 to $14,000 from an office safe at the Sterling Lindner Department Store over the weekend, police reported.

The burglars apparently hid in the store before it closed. They tripped a silent alarm while making their exit, police said.

Unhappy Thin Girl Asks For Help

Three-year-old Monica is dawdling over her food. "Eat this, Monica," commands the mother, but Monica dawdles on. Aunt Becky at the table says, "You are spoiling that child. Why don't you do something?" Grandma adds, "If she were my child, I'd make her eat." Under these pressures, the mother seizes Monica and tries to force a big spoonful of carrots into her. Monica closes her lips and teeth against the spoon but the mother pries them open and pushes some carrots into her. The youngster doesn't chew them but holds them in her mouth. As the mother tries to force a second spoonful into the defenseless little girl, she gags and finally vomits.

"THERE, YOU SEE what happens!" the mother angrily informs the older persons.

In the first place, Grandma and Aunt Becky should have kept their own mouths shut and minded their own business; they should not have even noticed Monica and her eating problem.

Unless these oldsters could so restrain themselves, they should not have been at the dinner table when Monica was there. Or Monica might better have had her meal elsewhere with her mother.

In either case, the mother should have placed only one or two disks of carrots before Monica, or no more of some other essential food and she should not have told Monica to eat it. Most of all, she should not have pushed the food into this child who was old enough to feed herself.

IF MONICA DID not choose to eat that very small portion of food in a reasonable time, the mother should, perhaps, have explained quietly, "You may have no other food unless you choose to eat this," and have kept her word.

She should have removed the food without saying another word or showing any anger and have let Monica leave the table, making sure she had no other food, except fruit juice perhaps, until the next regular mealtime.

Young children hold food in the mouth, gag or vomit because food is forced into them. They eat when they are hungry.

Instead of telling them to eat or putting food into them against their will, keep food away from them until they get hungry enough to eat a bit of almost anything offered them.

Of course Monica might have chosen to eat well if there were milder ways—if no one had said a word about her eating and if she had a number of foods from which to choose.

THE RESOURCEFUL mother can find all sorts of substitutes providing the necessary items of nourishment. But this procedure can become a costly nuisance.

In any event, the mother needs to avoid all talk and show of vexation over the youngster who doesn't choose to eat what is offered her.

Woman Faces Quiz In Husband's Death

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police held Mrs. Diana Louise Garten, 19, for questioning today about the death of her husband, Carl, 45, who died after being stabbed with a butcher knife.

Officers said Garten, a tavern operator, was stabbed following a domestic argument Sunday.

Cleveland's Police Probe Is Completed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Police Chief Frank W. Story says investigation of the recent police scandal is complete and "we have now completely eradicated the cancer."

The investigation was triggered by the arrest early this month of a West Side patrolman who admitted thefts totaling some $3,000 over an 18-month period from establishments on his beat. The patrolman, William Marlowe, named 10 other patrolmen as being involved, but only two were indicted by a grand jury that heard evidence in the case.

Asked about a statement made by a man now in Ohio Penitentiary concerning alleged theft of liquor from a state store, Chief Story said the matter had been investigated thoroughly "and is completely false."

The chief was interviewed Sunday on KYW-TV's "Open Circuit."

"This rumor was started in May of 1961 by a burglar we caught in a haberdashery," the chief said. "He committed some 20 crimes. He was breaking ADT tapes on stores, setting off the alarms. He then committed the crimes after the alarms were turned off. Investigation has proved that police were in no way involved."

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle announced last week he was sending Cleveland authorities a file concerning statements by a prisoner who said nearly a year ago he had knowledge of burglaries by members of the Cleveland police department.

Store In Cleveland Robbed Of $12,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Safecrackers took $12,000 to $14,000 from an office safe at the Sterling Lindner Department Store over the weekend, police reported.

The burglars apparently hid in the store before it closed. They tripped a silent alarm while making their exit, police said.

Traffic Toll Rises In Ohio For Holiday

Traffic	10
Fire	2
Miscellaneous	0
Total	12

By The Associated Press

Christmas Eve arrived in Ohio with safety officials expressing hope that their prediction of 26 deaths during the four-day holiday period would not materialize.

But with surge of homebound traffic expected late in the day, there was a fair possibility that the estimate could be accurate.

In the period starting at 6 p.m. Friday, highway accidents had claimed 10 lives—four of them in two accidents — and two persons had died in a fire for an overall toll of 12.

The count continues until midnight Tuesday.

The deaths:

Friday

Mrs. Judith D. Ballinger, 22, Toledo, in a three-car accident in Toledo.

Mrs. Amelia Durban, 70, Cincinnati, in a collision in front of her home.

Saturday

John J. Lindsay, 47, Bowling Green.

Wilbur Mueller, 56, and his wife, Katherine, also 56, Norwood, in the collision of their car and a tractor-trailer truck on U.S. 22 near Washington Court House.

Earl D. Brown, 40, Sinking Spring (Highland County), in a fire that followed an explosion in his home.

Frank T. Kayser, 60, Oregon (Lucas County), and his wife, Irene, 59, in a truck-car crash on Ohio 77 near McConnellsville.

Sunday

Donald L. Smith, 23, Cincinnati, in a one-car crash in suburban Cincinnati.

Mrs. Jennie A. Krokos, 38, Lorain, in a head-on collision on Ohio 45 near Warren.

Monday

Wayne S. Smith, 4, Dayton, in a fire in his West Side home.

Leo M. Kellhoffer II, 18, Londonderry (Ross), when his car left U.S. 335 eight miles east of Chillicothe and struck a utility pole.

Ancient Gate Opened In Christmas Gesture

JERUSALEM, Jordanian Sector (AP)—The ancient Mandelbaum Gate, astride the no man's land separating hostile Jordan and Israel, was opened today in an annual Christmas gesture to permit Christian arabs from Israel to visit loved ones in Jordan.

Armed guards stood at each end of the barbed-wire corridor.

The government of Jordan this year granted 36-hour passes to 26,686 Israeli arabs. They are taking cakes, cheeses and wines to relatives who fled across the frontier in the Palestine war. Many are living in refugee camps.

Some have not seen their kin for 14 years.

The Mandelbaum Gate will swing shut for another year at sunset Christmas night.

Police Quiz Youth In Death Of Father

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Police questioned 15-year-old Lawrence Campbell of nearby Coal Grove today in connection with the fatal shooting of his father, Ernest, a 47-year-old chemical plant worker.

The elder Campbell was killed Sunday during a family dispute, police said. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Ending Of Cadet Teacher Plan Is OEA's Top Story

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Termination of the cadet teacher program has been voted the education story of the year in Ohio in a poll conducted for the Ohio Education Association.

The poll among education writers and editors on both daily and weekly newspapers was conducted by the Education News Service.

The State Board of Education earlier this year decided to terminate, beginning in 1966, the practice of permitting persons with only two years of college training to teach in elementary schools.

Rated the No. 2 education story was "the continuing decline of state support of public schools" while the prominence of education in the recent gubernatorial campaign was judged third best story.

The writers and editors said the James Meredith controversy and subsequent rioting at the University of Mississippi was the top education story on the national level.

Ranked second nationally was the defeat of President Kennedy's education bill. The third biggest national story was "the increased concern shown by political leaders and educators over the millions of youngsters who drop out of school before graduating." the OEA said.

Santa Claus Involved In Traffic Accident

CINCINNATI (AP)—A southern Santa and his battered sleigh may make it to Detroit tonight—depending on what happens in Police Court.

The case involves James Clarence Crawley, 58, who was enroute from Chattanooga Sunday with his car full of Christmas gifts.

Crawley became involved in an auto accident and was charged with following too closely after his car hit the rear of an auto operated by Bobby Edwards of Cincinnati.

After being booked, "Santa" was freed on $50 bond. But police said he and his damaged car had to spend the night in Cincinnati—with Christmas Eve almost here.

Sunday Sale Of Yule Trees Brings Arrest

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sunday sale of Christmas trees resulted in the arrest of William Gale, suburban Maple Heights police reported.

Gale, operator of Gale's Nursery on Lee Road, was one of two men arrested in the suburb Sunday. The other was Al Wish, operator of an appliance store on Turney Road.

Both were released on $200 bond pending court appearance.

Businessmen in Maple Heights, which has enforced the Sunday closing law strictly, have complained that their customers were going to neighboring communities where there has been no interference with Sunday sales.

Police Lt. Frank Novotny said Wish had been convicted previoulsy of illegal Sunday sales.

Child Shouldn't Be Forced To Eat

Thin girls with weight worries, welcome aboard. One bony lassie pleads for help:

"Would you please ask any reader who has been thin and found a way of gaining to give advice. Kindly write an article on gaining. I am sure many share my problem.

Ida Jean Kain

"You can't possibly realize just how hard it can be to put on weight or how awful it is to be skinny, unless you have been through it yourself. I am a teenager, and being skinny is actually thwarting my whole social life. I am miserable.

"Why can't I gain a few pounds? I try not to eat too many sweets, they ruin my skin, and I add non-fat dry milk to my regular milk, and try to eat a few more bites beyond the point of satisfaction.

I WENT TO a doctor for a cold and for an all-over check-up, he didn't seem to take my underweight as though it were medically serious. My goal is to be 10 pounds fatter in one month. Please help me!"

Why can't you gain? The answer is that you probably try to get by on too little rest, and inadequate sleep.

Dr. William Emerson made this statement in his excellent book "Health For The Having": "The amount of food taken may be doubled or even tripled with no gain in weight, because weight gain does not so much depend upon the amount of food taken as upon its digestion and absorption. Overfatigue impairs both."

Overdoing can keep you worn to a nubbin. In studies with underweight children, it was found that a 30-minute rest period before the evening meal resulted in regular weight gains. Rest before the meal aids assimilation.

It isn't just fat you want to pile on. You want a healthier functioning body, better muscle tone and vibrant well - being. For you thin girls, fresh air can work a blooming miracle. See to it that some part of every day is spent in the out of doors. Walk and breathe deeply, walk in upright posture.

On the nutrition score: Instead of adding non - fat dry milk powder to the milk you drink, add booster calories in the form of a protein, mineral, vitamin food supplement. Add an extra slice of good bread and butter to each of your three meals. Relax at the meal hour so you will get more "good" out of your food.

To gain you must have a calorie surplus. You can create this surplus by eating a little more and burning a little less — double dividends. Stop rushing.

ASK YOUR mother to cooperate with you on a 30-minute rest period before your evening meal. You can wash the dishes after the meal! Talk this weight gaining plan over with your family doctor. He may wish to check your hemoglobin.

With grade A nutrition, adequate rest and some time spent daily out of doors, you'll be a well - rounded, bonnie lassie ere too long.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Grade A Nutrition For Weight Gaining" and "Weight - Training For Curve Building." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Distressed Seek Professional Aid

Public Attitude Changes On Emotional Affliction

EDITOR'S NOTE — More and more, the man who feels emotionally distressed seeks professional help and makes no secret of it. This, psychiatrists say, is a healthy development in the struggle to prevent and treat mental illness today. Here, in the last of a series of five special articles, is a report on how the public attitude toward emotional affliction is changing.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Recently, a man placed a personal notice in his hometown newspaper.

He said he'd be away for a time at a hospital, and urged friends to write him there.

His new address—a mental hospital.

He felt no embarrassment in admitting to emotional ailments, a need for treatment, and expectation it would work.

It is one straw in the wind of public change to regard mental illness as objectively as heart disease or TB, without stigma, shame or fear.

People don't "catch" emotional illness just to be mean or because they are weak, or feel sorry for themselves, says Dr. C. Hardin Branch, president of the American Psychiatric Association. Their treatment calls for understanding by family, friends, and the public.

Their sickness differs in one important respect — they don't seem to want to be helped, and thus don't evoke sympathy, the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health points out.

This expert group was authorized by Congress in 1955 to survey the nation's mental health needs, and it issued a report last year calling urgently for a vast buildup in facilities to treat mental and emotional ailments.

Neurotics—the man with a constant grudge, the woman always nit-picking at faults in everyone else—are simply hard to get along with.

One old fear is that the mentally sick usually go berserk.

But the crime rate of discharged mental patients actually is lower than it is among the general population, the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene found in a study of more than 10,000 male patients.

How does one know if he needs help?

Dr. William Menninger advises emotional checkups, much as sensible people have regular physical checkups. While there is no simple test for mental health, he lists some questions to be asked in an emotional checkup:

How do you get along with other people? When a situation gets really rough, do you lose your temper, become jittery or paralyed, or so anxious you cannot function? How much fun do you get from constructive, creative giving of yourself?

How do you react to frustrations? By quitting? By realizing you cannot win all the time?

How free are you from anxiety? What outlets do you have when you are tense or anxious? If you are troubled, do you really try to seek help?

"The essence of all these suggestions is the recognition that we have to have the courage, before we look at other people, to be able to look at ourselves," he writes.

Depressions, the feeling you've missed out in life, continual tensions, are some common signs of emotional disturbances.

Life brings changes and losses, particularly in middle age, says Dr. Harry Levinson of the Menninger Foundation. Some ways to make up for losses include activities to express aggressive feelings, through sports, gardening or walking. You can find new friends, new hobbies and interests, new stimulations. One of the healthiest avenues is public service, volunterring to help church, social agencies, or political organizations, he adds.

Dr. Karl Menninger suggests that frequently what we need is not "don't-give-a-damn pills," but "do-give-a-damn pills" to prompt us to be useful and constructive.

As one point for concern, the joint commission declares this country faces a major crisis in mental health unless professional personnel and other programs are increased many fold within 10 years.

It calls for tripling mental health expenditures in the next decade for more basic research, for new state hospitals of no more than 1,000 beds each, smaller mental hospitals within the communities, more psychiatric beds in general hospitals, and for 3,600 full-time mental health clinics in the nation.

On the plus side, the budget of the National Institute of Mental Health was increased $35 millions this year, to $143,559,000. The National Association for Mental Health is raising about $6 million for research and other programs.

Now there is a tide of "turmoil, creativity and experimentation" in mental health, says Dr. Robert Felix of the institute.

If this continues, it "will inevitably increase our understanding of human nature and man. It can help us become constructively adaptive as individuals in an increasingly complex and competitive society."

2 Face Police Court For Sales On Sunday

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two downtown merchants face appearances in Police Court Jan. 11 as the result of staying open Sunday in defiance of Ohio's Sunday closing laws.

Frank Anderson, 61, manager of Ben's Department Store, and Luis Lucas, 51, of the Central five and dime store, were the only merchants cited Sunday in this area for violating the state's blue laws.

Traffic Toll Rises In Ohio For Holiday

Traffic	10
Fire	2
Miscellaneous	0
Total	12

By The Associated Press

Christmas Eve arrived in Ohio with safety officials expressing hope that their prediction of 26 deaths during the four-day holiday period would not materialize.

But with surge of homebound traffic expected late in the day, there was a fair possibility that the estimate could be accurate.

In the period starting at 6 p.m. Friday, highway accidents had claimed 10 lives—four of them in two accidents — and two persons had died in a fire for an overall toll of 12.

The count continues until midnight Tuesday.

The deaths:

Friday

Mrs. Judith D. Ballinger, 22, Toledo, in a three-car accident in Toledo.

Mrs. Amelia Durban, 70, Cincinnati, in a collision in front of her home.

Saturday

John J. Lindsay, 47, Bowling Green.

Wilbur Mueller, 56, and his wife, Katherine, also 56, Norwood, in the collision of their car and a tractor-trailer truck on U.S. 22 near Washington Court House.

Earl D. Brown, 40, Sinking Spring (Highland County), in a fire that followed an explosion in his home.

Frank T. Kayser, 60, Oregon (Lucas County), and his wife, Irene, 59, in a truck-car crash on Ohio 77 near McConnellsville.

Sunday

Donald L. Smith, 23, Cincinnati, in a one-car crash in suburban Cincinnati.

Mrs. Jennie A. Krokos, 38, Lorain, in a head-on collision on Ohio 45 near Warren.

Monday

Wayne S. Smith, 4, Dayton, in a fire in his West Side home.

Leo M. Kellhoffer II, 18, Londonderry (Ross), when his car left U.S. 335 eight miles east of Chillicothe and struck a utility pole.

Ancient Gate Opened In Christmas Gesture

JERUSALEM, Jordanian Sector (AP)—The ancient Mandelbaum Gate, astride the no man's land separating hostile Jordan and Israel, was opened today in an annual Christmas gesture to permit Christian arabs from Israel to visit loved ones in Jordan.

Armed guards stood at each end of the barbed-wire corridor.

The government of Jordan this year granted 36-hour passes to 26,686 Israeli arabs. They are taking cakes, cheeses and wines to relatives who fled across the frontier in the Palestine war. Many are living in refugee camps.

Some have not seen their kin for 14 years.

The Mandelbaum Gate will swing shut for another year at sunset Christmas night.

Police Quiz Youth In Death Of Father

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—Police questioned 15-year-old Lawrence Campbell of nearby Coal Grove today in connection with the fatal shooting of his father, Ernest, a 47-year-old chemical plant worker.

The elder Campbell was killed Sunday during a family dispute, police said. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Ending Of Cadet Teacher Plan Is OEA's Top Story

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Termination of the cadet teacher program has been voted the education story of the year in Ohio in a poll conducted for the Ohio Education Association.

The poll among education writers and editors on both daily and weekly newspapers was conducted by the Education News Service.

The State Board of Education earlier this year decided to terminate, beginning in 1966, the practice of permitting persons with only two years of college training to teach in elementary schools.

Rated the No. 2 education story was "the continuing decline of state support of public schools" while the prominence of education in the recent gubernatorial campaign was judged third best story.

The writers and editors said the James Meredith controversy and subsequent rioting at the University of Mississippi was the top education story on the national level.

Ranked second nationally was the defeat of President Kennedy's education bill. The third biggest national story was "the increased concern shown by political leaders and educators over the millions of youngsters who drop out of school before graduating." the OEA said.

Santa Claus Involved In Traffic Accident

CINCINNATI (AP)—A southern Santa and his battered sleigh may make it to Detroit tonight—depending on what happens in Police Court.

The case involves James Clarence Crawley, 58, who was enroute from Chattanooga Sunday with his car full of Christmas gifts.

Crawley became involved in an auto accident and was charged with following too closely after his car hit the rear of an auto operated by Bobby Edwards of Cincinnati.

After being booked, "Santa" was freed on $50 bond. But police said he and his damaged car had to spend the night in Cincinnati—with Christmas Eve almost here.

Sunday Sale Of Yule Trees Brings Arrest

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sunday sale of Christmas trees resulted in the arrest of William Gale, suburban Maple Heights police reported.

Gale, operator of Gale's Nursery on Lee Road, was one of two men arrested in the suburb Sunday. The other was Al Wish, operator of an appliance store on Turney Road.

Both were released on $200 bond pending court appearance.

Businessmen in Maple Heights, which has enforced the Sunday closing law strictly, have complained that their customers were going to neighboring communities where there has been no interference with Sunday sales.

Police Lt. Frank Novotny said Wish had been convicted previoulsy of illegal Sunday sales.

Keep In Trim

By 'DA JEAN KAIN

Child Shouldn't Be Forced To Eat

Thin girls with weight worries, welcome aboard. One bony lassie pleads for help:

Ida Jean Kain

"Would you please ask any reader who has been thin and found a way of gaining to give advice. Kindly write an article on gaining. I am sure many share my problem.

"You can't possibly realize just how hard it can be to put on weight or how awful it is to be skinny, unless you have been through it yourself. I am a teenager, and being skinny is actually thwarting my whole social life. I am miserable.

"Why can't I gain a few pounds? I try not to eat too many sweets, they ruin my skin, and I add non-fat dry milk to my regular milk, and try to eat a few more bites beyond the point of satisfaction.

I WENT TO a doctor for a cold and for an all-over check-up, he didn't seem to take my underweight as though it were medically serious. My goal is to be 10 pounds fatter in one month. Please help me!"

Why can't you gain? The answer is that you probably try to get by on too little rest, and inadequate sleep.

Dr. William Emerson made this statement in his excellent book "Health For The Having": "The amount of food taken may be doubled or even tripled with no gain in weight, because weight gain does not so much depend upon the amount of food taken as upon its digestion and absorption. Overfatigue impairs both."

Overdoing can keep you worn to a nubbin. In studies with underweight children, it was found that a 30-minute rest period before the evening meal resulted in regular weight gains. Rest before the meal aids assimilation.

It isn't just fat you want to pile on. You want a healthier functioning body, better muscle tone and vibrant well - being. For you thin girls, fresh air can work a blooming miracle. See to it that some part of every day is spent in the out of doors. Walk and breathe deeply, walk in upright posture.

On the nutrition score: Instead of adding non - fat dry milk powder to the milk you drink, add booster calories in the form of a protein, mineral, vitamin food supplement. Add an extra slice of good bread and butter to each of your three meals. Relax at the meal hour so you will get more "good" out of your food.

To gain you must have a calorie surplus. You can create this surplus by eating a little more and burning a little less — double dividends. Stop rushing.

ASK YOUR mother to cooperate with you on a 30-minute rest period before your evening meal. You can wash the dishes after the meal! Talk this weight gaining plan over with your family doctor. He may wish to check your hemoglobin.

With grade A nutrition, adequate rest and some time spent daily out of doors, you'll be a well - rounded, bonnie lassie ere too long.

Send a stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for "Grade A Nutrition For Weight Gaining" and "Weight - Training For Curve Building." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Distressed Seek Professional Aid

Public Attitude Changes On Emotional Affliction

EDITOR'S NOTE — More and more, the man who feels emotionally distressed seeks professional help and makes no secret of it. This, psychiatrists say, is a healthy development in the struggle to prevent and treat mental illness today. Here, in the last of a series of five special articles, is a report on how the public attitude toward emotional affliction is changing.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Recently, a man placed a personal notice in his hometown newspaper.

He said he'd be away for a time at a hospital, and urged friends to write him there.

His new address—a mental hospital.

He felt no embarrassment in admitting to emotional ailments, a need for treatment, and expectation it would work.

It is one straw in the wind of public change to regard mental illness as objectively as heart disease or TB, without stigma, shame or fear.

People don't "catch" emotional illness just to be mean or because they are weak, or feel sorry for themselves, says Dr. C. Hardin Branch, president of the American Psychiatric Association. Their treatment calls for understanding by family, friends, and the public.

Their sickness differs in one important respect — they don't seem to want to be helped, and thus don't evoke sympathy, the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health points out.

This expert group was authorized by Congress in 1955 to survey the nation's mental health needs, and it issued a report last year calling urgently for a vast build-up in facilities to treat mental and emotional ailments.

Neurotics—the man with a constant grudge, the woman always nit-picking at faults in everyone else—are simply hard to get along with.

One old fear is that the mentally sick usually go berserk.

But the crime rate of discharged mental patients actually is lower than it is among the general population, the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene found in a study of more than 10,000 male patients.

How does one know if he needs help?

Dr. William Menninger advises emotional checkups, much as sensible people have regular physical checkups. While there is no simple test for mental health, he lists some questions to be asked in an emotional checkup:

How do you get along with other people? When a situation gets really rough, do you lose your temper, become jittery or paralyed, or so anxious you cannot function? How much fun do you get from constructive, creative giving of yourself?

How do you react to frustrations? By quitting? By realizing you cannot win all the time?

How free are you from anxiety? What outlets do you have when you are tense or anxious? If you are troubled, do you really try to seek help?

"The essence of all these suggestions is the recognition that we have to have the courage, before we look at other people, to be able to look at ourselves," he writes.

Depressions, the feeling you've missed out in life, continual tensions, are some common signs of emotional disturbances.

Life brings changes and losses, particularly in middle age, says Dr. Harry Levinson ot the Menninger Foundation. Some ways to make up for losses include activities to express aggressive feelings, through sports, gardening or walking. You can find new friends, new hobbies and interests, new stimulations. One of the healthiest avenues is public service, volunterring to help church, social agencies, or political organizations, he adds.

Dr. Karl Menninger suggests that frequently what we need is not "don't-give-a-damn pills," but "do-give-a-damn pills" to prompt us to be useful and constructive.

As one point for concern, the joint commission declares this country faces a major crisis in mental health unless professional personnel and other programs are increased many fold within 10 years.

It calls for tripling mental health expenditures in the next decade for more basic research, for new state hospitals of no more than 1,000 beds each, smaller mental hospitals within the communities, more psychiatric beds in general hospitals, and for 3,600 full-time mental health clinics in the nation.

On the plus side, the budget of the National Institute of Mental Health was increased $35 millions this year, to $143,559,000. The National Association for Mental Health is raising about $6 million for research and other programs.

Now there is a tide of "turmoil, creativity and experimentation" in mental health, says Dr. Robert Felix of the institute.

If this continues, it "will inevitably increase our understanding of human nature and man. It can help us become constructively adaptive as individuals in an increasingly complex and competitive society."

2 Face Police Court For Sales On Sunday

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two downtown merchants face appearances in Police Court Jan. 11 as the result of staying open Sunday in defiance of Ohio's Sunday closing laws.

Frank Anderson, 61, manager of Ben's Department Store, and Luis Lucas, 51, of the Central five and dime store, were the only merchants cited Sunday in this area for violating the state's blue laws.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of my dear husband, Jack Coleman, who passed away 2 years ago Christmas night Dec. 25, 1960.
Gone but not forgotten is the one I dearly loved. But I know he is resting in that happy home above.
Sadly missed by your loving wife Alice Coleman and family.
Mrs. Alice Coleman
R.D. 3
Kittanning, Pa.

IN loving memory of Robert Charles Poynter, our beloved son, who died 7 years ago Dec. 25, 1955.
We loved him, ah, no tongue can tell, How much we loved him and how well. God loved him, too, and thought it was best. To take him home with Him to rest.
Sadly missed by Mom, Dad and brother.

Junior Editors Quiz on CARTOONS

QUESTION: Why do we call some drawings "cartoons?"

ANSWER: Originally, "cartoon" meant a large drawing made by an artist before he did the finished painting. In A we see an old time artist sketching a design which he will later transfer to a panel or canvas. Artists' pictures became smaller as time went on, but in the 1840's in England, an attempt was made to revive large sized paintings for public buildings. A big competition was held. Some of these sketches must have been pretty poor, as the newly started humorous magazine "Punch" began to make fun of them, and ran a series of funny drawings about them called "Punch's cartoons." After this, "cartoon"came to mean a funny or satirical drawing, such as caricatures of well-known people as in B. In America, the growing use of newspapers led to the funny figure cartoon, as in C, which developed into the comic strip. Later, the figures often became quite realistic (D.) Then we had Walt Disney and the development of the animated cartoon, now used so much in movies and TV. But wherever used, the cartoon principle is the same: a lot of story, humor or action told with as few lines as possible.

FOR YOU TO DO: Are you a cartoonist? Draw our lower pictures one after the other and find out. If you do pretty well, try making shapes which you invent yourself. For instance, you might start with a circle instead of the egg. Find the "doodle" most natural to you.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Just what are the proper paintbrush cleaning agents for the various kinds of paints used?

A. For oil paints and varnishes, use turpentine and then naphtha or kerosene. For flat paints, just naphtha or kerosene. For shellac, denatured alcohol does the trick. For lacquers, acetone and naphtha. For calcimine and other water paints, just plain old water.

Q. How can I remove an ink stain from a rug?

A. These can usually be removed by making a paste of buttermilk and starch, applying, and leaving it on for two or three days. Then rinse and let dry. Repeat the process if necessary.

Q. How can I repair a crack in a basement laundry tub?

A. First, widen the crack in your tub by opening it with a cold chisel and hammer, then clean out the dirt, grease, and soap. Next, mix some litharge and glycerin to a putty just stiff enough to be worked into the crack easily with a putty knife. Let your repair patch dry for at least 24 hours before running any water into the tub.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Dec. 24, the 358th day of 1962. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1811, more than 2,000 lives were lost when three British warships — St. George, Defense and Hero—were wrecked on the coast of Jutland.

On this day:

In 1784, the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States was organized with Francis Asbury designated as its first bishop.

In 1851, fire destroyed the main room of the Library of Congress in Washington.

In 1914, the English port of Dover was bombed by a German plane during World War I.

In 1944, U.S. counterattacks and bombings by 6,000 planes in Belgium finally checked the Nazi offensive in the Battle of the Bulge.

In 1953, one of the worst train wrecks in New Zealand's history took 166 lives when a Wellington-Auckland express plunged into a river.

Actress Ava Gardner is 40. Industrialist Howard Hughes is 57.

Thought for today:

Unlimited power is apt to corrupt the minds of those who possess it—William Pitt.

Ohio U. Students Form Unique Group

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — A group of Ohio University students has been granted a charter by the state of Ohio for a unique corporation.

They are establishing an Ohio University German Language House, where German must be spoken in all areas except private rooms.

Officials say it is the first non-university, nonfraternity housing unit ever to operate within the confines of Ohio University.

Only three of the 14 men involved speak German fluently, but all are taking courses.

Odd Facts

In case you've been wondering, the newest U.S. states of Alaska and Hawaii have no accepted abbreviations. The Government Printing Office reports that no abbreviation could be devised for Alaska that would avoid conflict with Alabama and Alberta, Canada. Although "Haw." was suggested for Hawaii, the Post Office Department was unimpressed and requested that the state's name be spelled out.

If you use vacuum - packed coffee in a pound can and it lasts a week in your household, and if you like really strong coffee, you may wish to add extra coffee when you brew it during the last few days of the week. Once opened, and even if it's kept in the refrigerator, the coffee gradually loses some of its aromatic quality; the extra amount added to the coffee pot helps to makeup for this loss.

How Can I?

Q. How can I prevent chromium from rusting?

A. Chromium itself is rustless. But the chromium we know is just a thin plating of metal over another metal that will rust, and when this begins to happen, there isn't much that can be done about it. You can prevent to a good extent, however, by painting the chromium with some clear lacquer.

Q. What is a good "homemade" polish for linoleum?

A. A mixture of equal parts of thick, boiled starch and thick, warm soapsuds makes a fine polish for linoleum. It preserves the finish of the linoleum, and makes it resistant to soiling.

Q. How can I keep the colors in silk fabrics from running?

A. Any colored silk fabric requires careful washing. One should never allow it to become real soiled before laundering. When washing, add a little salt to cold water, to prevent the color from running.

Q. How can I clean pearls?

A. Put a little olive oil on a piece of chamois, then rub this over the pearls gently.

Odd Facts

In case you've been wondering, the newest U.S. states of Alaska and Hawaii have no accepted abbreviations. The Government Printing Office reports that no abbreviation could be devised for Alaska that would avoid conflict with Alabama and Alberta, Canada. Although "Haw." was suggested for Hawaii, the Post Office Department was unimpressed and requested that the state's name be spelled out.

If you use vacuum - packed coffee in a pound can and it lasts a week in your household, and if you like really strong coffee, you may wish to add extra coffee when you brew it during the last few days of the week. Once opened, and even if it's kept in the refrigerator, the coffee gradually loses some of its aromatic quality; the extra amount added to the coffee pot helps to makeup for this loss.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I prevent chromium from rusting?

A. Chromium itself is rustless. But the chromium we know is just a thin plating of metal over another metal that will rust, and when this begins to happen, there isn't much that can be done about it. You can prevent to a good extent, however, by painting the chromium with some clear lacquer.

Q. What is a good "homemade" polish for linoleum?

A. A mixture of equal parts of thick, boiled starch and thick, warm soapsuds makes a fine polish for linoleum. It preserves the finish of the linoleum, and makes it resistant to soiling.

Q. How can I keep the colors in silk fabrics from running?

A. Any colored silk fabric requires careful washing. One should never allow it to become real soiled before laundering. When washing, add a little salt to cold water, to prevent the color from running.

Q. How can I clean pearls?

A. Put a little olive oil on a piece of chamois, then rub this over the pearls gently.

Zooming Through Arctic Skies Now

He's Off! Santa's On Way At Last

"Will Santa Clause really come to our house?" That is the most anxious question in America today. It is answered in the following column, written for parents to read aloud to their children. Since it first appeared in 1948, it has become a scrapbook favorite in many homes.

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH POLE (AP)—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last.

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The northern lights switched on to a clear, steady green—the "go-ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lines in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa needed that wide clear road in the sky. For his big red sleigh was piled so high with gifts it overflowed. It looked like a flying hayrack as it raced through the cold crisp air.

"Oh, dear; oh, dear," worried Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of the presents fall out and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I belive this must be the heaviest load I've had in 20 years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Donder to Vixen. "He's only riding in the sleigh. We have to pull it."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children," she said.

"Never mind," replied Santa. "I don't need it. This year I'm going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. It'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old softie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait! Please wait!"

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiped about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the angel of peace," explained Cluny.

"Why, Cluny!" said Santa, "this is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker-tickly kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frost air.

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sleigh began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Santa was on his way. And tonight he will come to your house, wherever you are.
